Civil Rights Leaders Map Their Strategy

3-Day Conference Gets Under Way In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro leaders and white sympathizers gather today for a strategy conference designed to assure passage of civil rights legislation.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People called the three-day meeting of several hundred persons from around the country to:

1. Enable them to meet with their members of Congress and stress their desire for "meaningful civil rights legislation."

2. Plan "continuous grass roots activity" in the states to build popular sentiment for the legislation and convey this sentiment to Congress.

Among those listed to speak at the sessions were several Congress members and churchmen of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths.

The sessions are distinct from the big "march for jobs and freedom" which six civil rights organizations, including the NAACP, are planning for Aug. 28. In this demonstration, an estimated 100,000 to 250,000 Negroes and Whites are to gather near the Washington Monument and march to the Lincoln Memorial, a half mile away, for exercises and speeches.

Discussing this march Monday, Dr. Walter Fauntroy, Washington coordinator of the demonstration indicated that if Congress should decide to take a long Labor Day recess and thus be out of town Aug. 28, the demonstration would be postponed. But the director of information for the march, Sy Posner, said in New York: "The march will be held rain or shine on the 28th whether Congress is in session or not."

There had been some indications that Congress might be in recess, but latest signs are that it will be here Aug. 28.

Once Around Roundtown

THE COUNTDOWN has started for students looking forward to going back to school. Even those who do not cherish the idea of hitting the books have their "days of freedom" counted. One CHS student downtown today commented, "Man, there's only 27 days 'till school starts." He was right, school opens Sept. 3, in the city.

Mrs. Douglas To Rewed Too

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Mercedes Douglas plans to marry today—The day after her former husband, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, married a girl 41 years his junior.

Monday—as her husband's marriage to a 23-year-old government girl was making headlines—Mercedes Douglas came up with some news of her own: At 6 p.m. today, at the home of a friend, she would marry Robert B. Eichholz, 52, a Washington attorney.

Mrs. Douglas is 46.

Their sudden marriage plans came as a surprise to many—as did the marriage of the towering white-thatched justice to a secretary whom he first met when she was a college coed.

The former Joan Carol Martin and Douglas were united in a church ceremony at Buffalo, N.Y.

Fake Viet Nam Coup Claimed

Buddhist Says Plot To Be Laid to Foes

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese Buddhist leaders charged today the government is planning to stage a fake coup d'etat aimed at discrediting Buddhists and political opposition leaders.

The false coup, Buddhists say, would last only a few hours, after which leading Buddhists and oppositionists would be arrested and charged with perpetrating it.

The Buddhist high priest, the Rev. Thich Tinh Khat, made the charge in a letter to President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic.

Khat wrote, "This plot appears aimed at creating confusion in which the Xa Loi pagoda (Buddhist headquarters) will be destroyed, and Buddhist leaders will be killed."

"This plot could also be aimed at introducing another person than you into the presidency on the basis that your are considered too weak."

The "other person" mentioned in the letter was not named, but Buddhists said they had in mind Ngo Dinh Nhu, the president's powerful brother.

According to one persistent rumor, a coup attempt is considered likely before the arrival of U.S. Ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge later this month.

American officials are keeping a close eye on the situation but tend to discount the likelihood of a coup.

Hiroshima Recalls Day Of A-Fury

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—The people of Hiroshima paused today to mourn the victims of history's first atom bomb attack, made on their city 18 years ago today. But they took heart from the signing of the partial nuclear test ban treaty in Moscow.

At 8:15 a.m.—the exact time that the American B29 "Enola Gay" dropped the bomb on Aug. 6, 1945 — a swarm of doves wheeled into the air and the Hiroshima peace bell began its sorrowful toll.

A crowd of 15,000 stood with bowed heads for a minute of silence before the simple, arched memorial to the city's atomic dead.

Mayor Shinzo Hamai, dressed in black, referred to the Moscow treaty in his memorial address, expressing "great gratification that at long last a pact for the partial banning of nuclear weapons has been concluded by the United States, the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union."

The memorial ceremony was brief and restrained, in marked contrast to the confusion and political bickering which broke up the opening Monday night of the Communist-dominated ninth world conference against hydrogen and atom bombs.

Rusk was accompanied to the conference by Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations; William C. Foster, director of the American Disarmament Agency; Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, and Charles Stelle, U.S. representative to the Geneva disarmament conference.

The test ban treaty—pledging to abstain from nuclear weapon tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water — was signed by the foreign ministers Monday. Soviet Premier Khrushchev called it the "first sprouts of international confidence" and said his government "would do everything in its power for these sprouts to develop and gain in strength."

Rebels Seek Ouster Of Dictator Chief

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A spokesman for Haitian rebels who invaded the north coast of Haiti said today that two columns of troops have surrounded Cap Haitien, Haiti's second city.

He said the invaders have not captured the port city of 25,000 as was rumored in Santo Domingo this morning but now command the Palen du Nord in front of the city and much of the area around it.

The rebel forces, under the command of Gen. Leon Cantave, was reported composed of exiled Haitian soldiers.

They struck ashore Monday at Fort Liberté, 18 miles east of Cap Haitien, with the aim of toppling the terrorist regime of dictator Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier.

Duvalier, the voodoo-preaching physician turned strongman, acknowledged Monday night there was an invasion on Haiti's north coast.

The Dominican frontier forces and navy were alerted after news of the invasion and Haiti charged that some of the invaders came from adjoining Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

Dominican President Juan Bosch conferred with his armed forces chiefs at the national palace.

The newspaper Listin Diario reported that a number of Haitian officials have crossed into the Dominican Republic seeking asylum. Some Haitian soldiers also reportedly fled across the border.

Haitian exile sources in Santo Domingo said at least 500 well-armed men, trained for guerrilla warfare, landed Monday at Fort Liberté, 18 miles east of Cap Haitien. (Continued on Page 2)

Lawrence Rawlins, 29, of Portsmouth, arrested with Thompson July 29 shortly after a holdup in Medina, allegedly was involved in two other holdups with Thompson, and charges will be filed, the FBI said Monday.

Rawlins allegedly acted as lookout for Thompson, 34, on three holdups, said Edward E. Hargett, agent in charge of the FBI's Cleveland office.

Hargett listed the three holdups in which charges are being filed against both men as the Medina holdup in which $2,395 in cash and $3,700 in travelers checks was taken from an Akron Savings & Loan Association branch; the $5,058 holdup Nov. 20, 1961, of the

Portsmouth Barber Accused With Series of Ohio Holdups

CLEVELAND (AP) — Harold H. Thompson, operator of a Portsmouth barber shop, has been charged with four holdups of Ohio financial institutions, and the FBI says he may have been involved in three others.

The loot from the seven holdups in a little more than three years totaled more than $31,000, the FBI says.

Lawrence Rawlins, 29, of Portsmouth, arrested with Thompson July 29 shortly after a holdup in Medina, allegedly was involved in two other holdups with Thompson, and charges will be filed, the FBI said Monday.

Rawlins allegedly acted as lookout for Thompson, 34, on three holdups, said Edward E. Hargett, agent in charge of the FBI's Cleveland office.

Hargett listed the three holdups in which charges are being filed against both men as the Medina holdup in which $2,395 in cash and $3,700 in travelers checks was taken from an Akron Savings & Loan Association branch; the $5,058 holdup Nov. 20, 1961, of the of the investigation of those holdups is continuing.

Relief Agencies Help Low-Pay GI Families Make Ends Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine enlisted men have had to turn to charity because they are unable to make ends meet on their service incomes.

An Associated Press survey of the military services and service-affiliated relief organizations indicated today that the relief agencies have paid out millions of dollars to help provide military families with such needs as food and clothing.

Some families accept food surplus packages. Others, particularly those with many children, are able to draw state welfare payments.

Armed forces personnel specialists said many men take jobs in bowling alleys, filling stations, groceries and other private businesses to add to their service pay. Their wives often work.

One Marine welfare officer called it "disgraceful" that senior non-commissioned officers living in Washington, D.C., area should have to take off-duty civilian jobs to keep their heads above water.

The armed services said they do not know even approximately how many of their men have been drawing some form of relief.

A hint of the scope comes from the semi-official military relief organizations, which operate on voluntary contributions. These groups were set up because regulations bar the services from using government funds to furnish emergency aid.

Army Emergency Relief gave out $4,178,661 in loans and grants last year. One-third of this went to 12,215 cases to pay for food, rent, and utilities.

The Navy Relief Society distributed $4,056,570 in 1962, about half going to avert want among Navy men, Marines, their wives and children.

The Air Force Aid Society paid out more than $750,000 between December and May. No breakdown was available of the portion devoted to staffing off destitution.

The help furnished by service relief societies is generally of a one-shot variety. For long-term help, the services are banking on a $2-billion military pay bill before Congress. It would provide the first military pay boost in five years, but would not provide more money for privates and seamen.

Pentagon leaders headed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara contend the pay situation is damaging morale among the 2.7 million people in the armed forces and driving men with valuable skills out of uniform.

3 Youths Face Possible Trial As Adults

CLEVELAND (AP)—Three Negro youths, who police say have admitted taking part in an attack on a white couple in Sowinski Park, face grand jury action and possible trial as adults.

Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Woldman, concluding a 13-day hearing Monday, ordered three other Negro youths implicated in the attack to serve reformatory terms.

The boys sentenced to Boys Industrial School for the June 12 assault are 13, 14 and 15 years old. Judge Woldman said he would study probation and psychiatric reports before determining the length of the sentences.

The youths whose cases go to the grand jury are 16 and 17.

The attack on Thomas A. Giffin, 18, and his 15-year-old girl friend at the playground area set off a series of racial incidents. The Negroes were charged with assault with intent to kill Giffin and the girl and with having carnal knowledge of the girl.

Commission Seeks Further Division of Tax Levy Here

Two resolutions calling for further division of a current tax levy were adopted yesterday by the Pickaway County Board of Commissioners. The measures to not call for an increase in taxes, but for the revision of a levy that already exists.

One levy would provide funds for maintenance and operation of the Pickaway County Tuberculosis Clinic. The other would provide for the care and treatment of Pickaway County residents who are tuberculosis patients in hospitals under contract with the county. Both have been certified to the County Board of Elections for placement on the November ballot.

The two levies would further divide a 25-hundredths mill levy which provides for the care of Pickaway County tuberculosis patients. First division of the levy was accomplished last November when voters passed a 10 hundredths of one mill levy for operation of a Pickaway County School for Retarded Children. A levy on the same ballot asking for five hundredths of one mill for the TB Clinic was defeated.

One of the levies, as approved yesterday by the Commission, again will ask for a division calling for the five-hundredths mill to operate the TB Clinic. The other would complete the division of the 25 hundredths mill by authorizing 10 hundredths of one mill for the care and treatment of Tuberculosis patients who are confined at various hospitals.

The old 25 hundredths mill levy, used only for care of patients, had built too high, according to Commissioners. They advocated a three-way division to make better use of the funds that were being accumulated.

In other business Monday, the Commission authorized the purchase of a new car for the Pickaway County Welfare Department. The auto will be bought from the Harden Chevrolet Co.

The car will be purchased from Welfare Department Funds, according to the Commissioners. A 1958 model auto will serve as a trade-in.

Meanwhile, it also was learned that the Valachi testimony—which he spilled during a year of questioning—has led to more breakthroughs in the government's quest for information about the syndicate.

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A U.S. District Court jury convicted Newport Attorney Charles E. Lester and former night club operator Edward Buccieri of conspiracy to violate the civil rights of Campbell County Sheriff George Ratterman. They were acquitted on a charge of the actual violation.

The four acquitted were former night club operator Tito Carinci; present Newport Police Chief Upshere White and Newport Detectives Pat Ciafardini and Joseph Quittner.

Judge Mac Swinford immediately sentenced Lester and Buccieri to a year in prison.

The jury returned its verdict at noon after having had the case since 1:45 p.m. Monday.

The case was the outgrowth of the arrest of Ratterman on May 9, 1961, in a room at the old Glenn Hotel in Newport with a strip tease dancer. Ratterman then was a candidate for sheriff on a reform ticket pledged to end vice and gambling in Campbell County.

Mississippians Fear 'Vote-in' By Negroes

State Goes to Polls To Select Governor In Democrat Primary

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Election officials kept an uneasy watch for Negro vote-ins today as an estimated 450,000 Mississippians began voting in the Democratic primary.

Reports circulated that unregistered Negroes would invade the polls despite a ruling by Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson that such a move would be illegal.

The racial tension climaxed a campaign which centered on civil rights and the Kennedy administration. The four gubernatorial candidates, all segregationists, spent most of the campaign emphasizing their opposition to Kennedy racial policies.

The four are: —Former Gov. J. P. Coleman, 49, an Ackerman lawyer who headed the state government from 1956-60.

—Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, 47, a Hattiesburg lawyer making his fourth bid for governor.

—Robert Mason, 65, a Magee welder who polled 2,704 votes in his 1959 race for governor.

—Charles Sullivan, 38-year-old Clarksdale lawyer who as an unknown finished a strong third in his race for governor four years ago.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. CST and close at 6 p.m.

Observers predicted a close vote necessitating a runoff Aug. 27. Coleman was expected to face Johnson or Sullivan in the runoff with the Democratic nominee to go against Republican Rubel Phillips and independent Ed Bishop in the Nov. 5 general election.

The winner will succeed Gov. Ross Barnett, prohibited by state law from succeeding himself. Barnett has followed Mississippi custom by taking no public part in the race for a successor.

The vote-in plans reported by Negro sources would be an effort by unregistered persons to cast ballots under a state law permitting those wrongly omitted from poll lists to record their choices by affidavit.

The vote-in, the sources said, would protest registration practices and procedures. A circular urging unregistered persons to file affidavits was circulated throughout the state.

However, the state attorney general said the law dealt with those who had registered and whose names were left off the poll books by mistake.

Patterson said that election officials had a duty not to let unqualified persons vote.

Mississippi has an estimated 30,000 registered Negroes.

Most of the racial aspects of the campaign involved the 1960 presidential race and last fall's University of Mississippi desegregation crisis which resulted in a bloody riot claiming two lives.

Union, Rail Representatives Bargain First Time in Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) —For the first time in weeks, railroad and union representatives face each other today across the bargaining table, a sign that negotiators believe they have chipped an opening in the deadlock over jobs.

"In another 24 to 48 hours, we should know whether we're shadow-boxing or really making progress," J. E. Wolfe, the carriers' chief negotiator, said Monday night.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard

Meetings were set up between the carriers and the representatives of the engine crews—engineers and firemen—and between the carriers and the train crew unions—conductors, brakemen and switchmen.

Wirtz said he would be on hand for both but also has to appear before a closed session of the Senate Commerce Committee which is keeping an eye on negotiations while studying President Kennedy's legislative recommendations for settling the work rules dispute.

To avert a strike over new work rules—designed to eliminate thousands of rail jobs, principally those of diesel freight firemen—Kennedy suggested turning the dispute over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The unions strongly opposed the Kennedy plan, calling the ICC management-oriented. The carriers supported it.

To give Congress time to act, the carriers postponed the new work rules until Aug. 29.

The Senate committee received a statement Monday from the railroads which was termed a supplemental rebuttal to union arguments against the President's proposals.

"The parties are at an impasse and the national interest is threatened," said the statement. I said some action must be taken and only the legislative branch can take it.

The railroads charged that the unions oppose the administration bill "because it will accomplish exactly what they meticulously and methodically avoided for 4 1/2 years, settlement of the dispute."

A Labor Department spokesman said Monday's sessions concerned the dispute's two chief issues: the firemen's jobs and the make-up of train crews.

Two resolutions calling for further division of a current tax levy were adopted yesterday by the Pickaway County Board of Commissioners. The measures to not call for an increase in taxes, but for the revision of a levy that already exists.

One levy would provide funds for maintenance and operation of the Pickaway County Tuberculosis Clinic. The other would provide for the care and treatment of Pickaway County residents who are tuberculosis patients in hospitals under contract with the county. Both have been certified to the County Board of Elections for placement on the November ballot.

The two levies would further divide a 25-hundredths mill levy which provides for the care of Pickaway County tuberculosis patients. First division of the levy was accomplished last November when voters passed a 10 hundredths of one mill levy for operation of a Pickaway County School for Retarded Children. A levy on the same ballot asking for five hundredths of one mill for the TB Clinic was defeated.

One of the levies, as approved yesterday by the Commission, again will ask for a division calling for the five - hundredths mill to operate the TB Clinic. The other would complete the division of the 25 hundredths mill by authorizing 10 hundredths of one mill for the care and treatment of Tuberculosis patients who are confined at various hospitals.

The old 25 hundredths mill levy, used only for care of patients, had built too high, according to Commissioners. They advocated a three-way division to make better use of the funds that were being accumulated.

In other business Monday, the Commission authorized the purchase of a new car for the Pickaway County Welfare Department. The auto will be bought from the Harden Chevrolet Co.

The car will be purchased from Welfare Department Funds, according to the Commissioners. A 1958 model auto will serve as a trade-in.

Meanwhile, it also was learned that the Valachi testimony—which he spilled during a year of questioning—has led to more breakthroughs in the government's quest for information about the syndicate.

Other weak spots in the syndicate's chain are being tapped for information. Not only Valachi's cooperation, but also the Justice Department's increasing pressure on organized crime, is being credited here for a sudden increase in the number of talkative hoodlums.

The help furnished by service relief societies is generally of a one-shot variety. For long-term help, the services are banking on a $2-billion military pay bill before Congress. It would provide the first military pay boost in five years, but would not provide more money for privates and seamen.

Pentagon leaders headed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara contend the pay situation is damaging morale among the 2.7 million people in the armed forces and driving men with valuable skills out of uniform.

Justice Douglas and Miss Joan Martin of suburban Amherst, a recent college graduate, were married in Buffalo's Unitarian Universalist Church in a noon ceremony.

The spokesman for the Martin family said Miss Martin was about 25 and formerly worked in Washington for the Agency for International Development.

They obtained a license Friday in Amherst.

The Buffalo News, which originally disclosed the marriage, said Miss Martin was graduated last year from Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa.

Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Woldman, concluding a 13-day hearing Monday, ordered three other Negro youths implicated in the attack to serve reformatory terms.

The boys sentenced to Boys Industrial School for the June 12 assault are 13, 14 and 15 years old. Judge Woldman said he would study probation and psychiatric reports before determining the length of the sentences.

The youths whose cases go to the grand jury are 16 and 17.

The attack on Thomas A. Giffin, 18, and his 15-year-old girl friend at the playground area set off a series of racial incidents. The Negroes were charged with assault with intent to kill Giffin and the girl and with having carnal knowledge of the girl.

Underworld Puts Price On Squealer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The underworld has set a price of $100,000 on the head of Joseph Valachi, the informant who gave officials their best information on the structure of the syndicate which dominates the crime picture in the United States, government sources said today.

"We're going to keep him alive," one source said. "We don't know exactly what we are going to do with him, but we're going to keep him in a safe place."

The syndicate—to which Valachi gave the name "Cosa Nostra" meaning "our thing"—has noised it around the underworld that the man who kills Valachi for breaking the syndicate's blood oath of silence, will be paid $100,000, informants said.

Meanwhile, it also was learned that the Valachi testimony—which he spilled during a year of questioning—has led to more breakthroughs in the government's quest for information about the syndicate.

Other weak spots in the syndicate's chain are being tapped for information. Not only Valachi's cooperation, but also the Justice Department's increasing pressure on organized crime, is being credited here for a sudden increase in the number of talkative hoodlums.

Mississippians Fear 'Vote-in' By Negroes

State Goes to Polls To Select Governor In Democrat Primary

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Election officials kept an uneasy watch for Negro vote-ins today as an estimated 450,000 Mississippians began voting in the Democratic primary.

Reports circulated that unregistered Negroes would invade the polls despite a ruling by Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson that such a move would be illegal.

The racial tension climaxed a campaign which centered on civil rights and the Kennedy administration. The four gubernatorial candidates, all segregationists, spent most of the campaign emphasizing their opposition to Kennedy racial policies.

The four are: —Former Gov. J. P. Coleman, 49, an Ackerman lawyer who headed the state government from 1956-60.

—Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, 47, a Hattiesburg lawyer making his fourth bid for governor.

—Robert Mason, 65, a Magee welder who polled 2,704 votes in his 1959 race for governor.

—Charles Sullivan, 38-year-old Clarksdale lawyer who as an unknown finished a strong third in his race for governor four years ago.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. CST and close at 6 p.m.

Observers predicted a close vote necessitating a runoff Aug. 27. Coleman was expected to face Johnson or Sullivan in the runoff with the Democratic nominee to go against Republican Ruben Phillips and independent Ed Bishop in the Nov. 5 general election.

The winner will succeed Gov. Ross Barnett, prohibited by state law from succeeding himself. Barnett has followed Mississippi custom by taking no public part in the race for a successor.

The vote-in plans reported by Negro sources would be an effort by unregistered persons to cast ballots under a state law permitting those wrongly omitted from poll lists to record their choices by affidavit.

The vote-in, the sources said, would protest registration practices and procedures. A circular urging unregistered persons to file affidavits was circulated throughout the state.

However, the state attorney general said the law dealt with those who had registered and whose names were left off the poll books by mistake.

Patterson said that election officials had a duty not to let unqualified persons vote.

Mississippi has an estimated 30,000 registered Negroes.

Most of the racial aspects of the campaign involved the 1960 presidential race and last fall's University of Mississippi desegregation crisis which resulted in a bloody riot claiming two lives.

Union, Rail Representatives Bargain First Time in Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) —For the first time in weeks, railroad and union representatives face each other today across the bargaining table, a sign that negotiators believe they have chipped an opening in the deadlock over jobs.

"In another 24 to 48 hours, we should know whether we're shadow-boxing or really making progress," J. E. Wolfe, the carriers' chief negotiator, said Monday night.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard

Wirtz called today's joint meetings after lengthy sessions Monday with each side.

He refused, however to say whether any progress had been made.

Meetings were set up between the carriers and the representatives of the engine crews—engineers and firemen—and between the carriers and the train crew unions—conductors, brakemen and switchmen.

Wirtz said he would be on hand for both but also has to appear before a closed session of the Senate Commerce Committee which is keeping an eye on negotiations while studying President Kennedy's legislative recommendations for settling the work rules dispute.

To avert a strike over new work rules—designed to eliminate thousands of rail jobs, principally those of diesel freight firemen—Kennedy suggested turning the dispute over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The unions strongly opposed the Kennedy plan, calling the ICC management-oriented. The carriers supported it.

To give Congress time to act, the carriers postponed the new work rules until Aug. 29.

The Senate committee received a statement Monday from the railroads which was termed a supplemental rebuttal to union arguments against the President's proposals.

"The parties are at an impasse and the national interest is threatened," said the statement. I said some action must be taken and only the legislative branch can take it.

The railroads charged that the unions oppose the administration bill "because it will accomplish exactly what they meticulously and methodically avoided for 4½ years, settlement of the dispute."

A Labor Department spokesman said Monday's sessions concerned the dispute's two chief issues: the firemen's jobs and the make-up of train crews.

Cap Haitien was placed on a war footing and a curfew imposed.

Reports reaching here said American families were evacuated to Cap Haitien from the U.S.-owned Dauphin sisal plantation on the orders of the Duvalier government. The plantation lies near Fort Liberté about 5 miles west of the Dominican border.

A news source in Port au Prince said Monday night little was known in public there except that a rebel force apparently was fighting the Haitian army in the north. Censors barred correspondents from sending out news by cable.

Gen. Leon Cantave, chief of the Haitian armed forces for five months in 1957, led the invasion under the banner of the National Democratic Union. Cantave told an interviewer recently he was not interested in becoming president, only in ousting Duvalier.

Paul Verna, a former Haitian diplomat representing the National Democratic Union, said an unidentified island off the coast was used as a staging area for the invasion. Some of the invaders were identified as former Haitian army officers who had been living in Santo Domingo.

Verna said the rebels expect to form a military-civilian provisional government in north Haiti.

Cantave, a career officer, became chief of the Haitian army in December 1956 after the overthrow of President Paul E. Magloire. He quit on May 25, 1957, to avoid involvement in his country's turbulent politics, and has been in exile for six years.

Duvalier, 54, a Negro country doctor, became president of Haiti in 1956. He has survived strikes, violence and a dozen plots against his life. He gave himself an illegal second term, extending until 1967, after a rigged election in 1961.

His constitutional term expired last May 15 and underground opponents vowed to assassinate him before then. But he survived and last month his forces killed the two chief leaders of the underground, brothers Clement and Harry Barbot.

Used Auto Sales Gimmick Being Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The attorney general and the Bureau of Motor Vehicles said today they had ordered a "crackdown" on used car dealers for what they called "a fraudulent sales gimmick connected with the sales price of used cars."

Dave Mainwaring, registrar, and Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, said they both feel that the type of charge being made is "larceny by trick which amounts to fraudulency on the individual consumer whereby the used car dealer is giving no value for the charge being made."

They gave this example: "The customer purchases a used car for $300. The salesman then charges the customer $100 for delivery and handling. When the customer asked what the $100 was for, the salesman stated that's a state law and everybody has to pay it."

The officials said the delivery and handling charges are tacked on in the sales contract. They added that the state's automobile dealer and salesmen licensing board has cited four of the large used car dealers in the Cleveland area in an effort to revoke their licenses.

"After checking the dealers in other areas, including the City of Columbus," they said, "we find that this same charge and the same method of operation exists in all major cities in Ohio."

Forrest M. Scott, 32, Route 1, Amanda, forfeited a $50 bond for speeding at 90 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Both speed violators were arrested by the State Highway Patrol.

Samuel R. Tomlinson, 31, of 305 W. Mound St., was fined $25 and court costs for abusing a police officer and fined another $10 and costs for making unnecessary noise with his vehicle. Affidavits were filed by city police.

Ronnie Clifton, Route 1, Williamsport, after being arrested by the sheriff's department for failing to yield the right-of-way, was fined $20 and costs.

John Cothorn, 33, Columbus, signed a waiver forfeiting $24 for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Both speed violators were arrested by the State Highway Patrol.

Italian Tax
On U.S. Agency
Building Hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Italian tax of $15,021 on a building the United States leases in Rome aroused the fire of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

The subcommittee members aired their views at a public hearing on the State Department's appropriation requests for this fiscal year.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Italians stationed in Washington are exempt from the District of Columbia sales tax and he doesn't see why we should "let them stick us."

Ellender asked William J. Crockett, deputy under secretary of state for administration, to work on getting the Italians to drop the levy "and retaliate if there is no response."

The new Italian levy of 6 per cent of the amount of the lease on all leased property has been assessed against a building the United States rents in Rome for State Department, military aid and other offices.

While the State Department is charged with $7,600 of the $15,021 tax, Sen. Carl E. Mundt, R-S.D., called it a "tax on a building where we supervise the military aid we are giving the Italians."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., the subcommittee chairman, chimed in: "We give them a million dollars and they tax us $15,000 to give them a million."

White Housing Tract Pickets Are Arrested

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP)—Thirty-one Congress of Racial Equality pickets have been arrested at an all-white housing tract for violating a controversial new city curfew ordinance.

The ordinance puts a weekend overnight curfew on nonresidents — excluding guests of residents — and newsmen—at the southwood Riviera Royale tract in suburban Torrance. It also prohibits overnight parking and forbids model homes or tract sales offices to remain open overnight on weekends.

Khrushchev's Smile

What Soviet Premier Khrushchev offers may seem like big concessions on his part. But all leading nations have espionage agents and already most of them know "what the other fellow is doing," particularly in fields where it is difficult to disguise activity, such as large-scale troop movements.

Actually the Soviet premier is merely continuing to move in the same direction as when he beamingly predicted that nuclear test ban talks in Moscow would be a success. Everything he does points to his desire to win friends for Russia in the West and to push China further into "co-ventry." Of course, in his desire to win friends he does not abandon any of communism's aims.

When Khrushchev agrees to on-the-site inspections of war industry, nuclear stockpiles, and top secret installations, there may be cause to rejoice. An offer to allow inspections of troop movements is nothing except proof that the wily Russian propagandist is weaving a web of friendly overtures that could catch a lot of wishful thinkers who still haven't learned to watch out.

The Chinese aren't the only people who have learned that a smile is as good as a mask, and twice as friendly.

Misconception

Safety improvements on automobiles have been highly beneficial so far as careful drivers are concerned, but they have had little effect on the 20 per cent of drivers who cause 80 per cent of highway accidents. These drivers, termed "accident prone" by safety experts, have records of repeated safety law violations which continue until they are killed or stopped from driving.

Given cars with lower center of gravity, they take curves even faster, given tires with greater traction on wet pavements they drive still faster on such surfaces. Given better brakes, they dash up to an intersection and try to "stop on a dime." Given greater acceleration for safer passing, they try to pass in still shorter spaces, so resulting collisions have even greater impact.

The only dependable safety device about a car is a safe driver.

'Bookcatcher' Is Different

Most communities of any size have dog catchers and kidcatchers (truant officers), but a "bookcatcher" is different.

Louisville, Ky., last year hired a man to work for the public library to retrieve books borrowed and not returned. He goes into action after fines amount to $1 or more on a book or three notices have been ignored.

On the job 18 months, he has retrieved 1,296 books (worth $4,356) and $295 in fines.

George Kirn, the bookcatcher, wears a badge. He has not been shot at yet, but on one occasion he was met at the door with a gun. But, he says, he doesn't "scare easily." He got his book.

Libraries have difficulty keeping their books. A few years ago a New Jersey library put its delinquent borrowers in jail. That seems a bit extreme, though it might give them opportunity to finish their reading.

Maybe a "bookcatcher" is the solution to the number one problem of libraries everywhere.

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Sellers, regarded by many as Britain's dearest comic actor looks at life with a big question mark in his eyes.

Wherever he is, he seems faintly puzzled to be there.

"I'm a very serious person in my private life — the unfunny person alive," he said.

"Humor tends to make you melancholy, because comedy is the most serious form of acting. People who specialize in it become morose."

Peter is noted for his wide range of roles. He has played everything from a duchess to a union leader in such films as "The Mouse That Roared," "I'm All Right, Jack," and "Heaven's Above."

In his first American-made picture, "The World of Henry Orient," he portrays a fumble-fingered pianist who would rather chase married women than give concerts.

Since his parents, his grandmother and eight uncles had been in show business, it was perhaps inevitable that Sellers would get in the act, too. He started on the ground floor—as a theater sweeper.

During World War II he loaded Royal Air Force planes with bullets and bombs.

"It was short of a dead end," he remarked. "I didn't see much future doing that on civvy street."

Self-taught, Peter developed his gift for mimicry by appearing in camp shows. Then he became a vaudeville, radio and television star before making his first picture, "Let's Go Crazy," in 1950. "It was so bad it never was released and it bloody well never will be," he said. "I bought it out myself to make sure."

What is the real Peter Sellers like? Wearing dark-rimmed eyeglasses, and looking like a curly haired owl surprised by daylight, the actor, 37, found it a bit embarrassing to talk about himself. He is no playboy.

"The big problem of men my age is to avoid coronary attacks and still achieve success," he said.

"I like to be alone a lot when I'm working, because I concentrate a lot and involve myself completely. You have to. This is a highly overpaid profession; therefore one owes it to the public to give the best one can, and this requires complete dedication."

"I like driving at night in precision-made cars" (Peter has owned more than 50), photographing people in candid situations, getting plenty of sleep, I need eight or nine hours or I'm finished, watching and reading other humorists."

This is the creed he lives by: "The only way to succeed — to be happy with yourself — is through kindness. I will do anything for anybody who asks me, but if I am told to do it, I revolt against it."

"I don't believe in an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, but I haven't quite reached the point where I can turn the other cheek."

A report to the British Dental Association reveals that each year some 90,000 British teenagers must be fitted with false teeth. Now, there's a grim statistic that hard to brush off!

"What gets me," says Grandpa Jenkins, "is why those British youngsters, don't do something about it, by gum!"

Elderly citizens are urged to play musical instruments. Music, we're told, can be quite a solace to old folk — if not to the neighbors.

ing friends: "Am having fine time, etc."

Cave men shaved with flint chips we read. So that's how beards became popular.

It's swarming with adorable Radcliffe girls, all equipped with knees, but dreadfully preoccupied with the pursuit of knowledge. Whether the competition likes it or not, Harvard is Harvard, 327 years old and operating on a budget of 85 million dollars a year. A cute neighbor of Jack Paar's, incidentally, decided to break her engagement on the very eve of the announced wedding day. Seems her fiancé had purchased a nobby convertible—with ONE seat belt.

"What do you do with the time you save?" asks an industrial publicist and continues, "Reflect on the sad history of a few minute-savers we know about. Al saves time skipping lunch and other meals. He has ulcers. Jack saved time driving 80 miles an hour in heavy traffic. He's in the pen for manslaughter. Harry saves time taking pills to keep him awake 16 hours a day. He's in the hands of a psychoanalyst. Marty saved time by making his old fuses do instead of going to the hardware store for more fuses. He's spending it working on a second job trying to replace his house which burned down."

The 11 p. m. weather report on television has made meteorologists by now of every viewer. Not to know the wind velocity over the Gulf of Mexico or why the hot front is surreptitiously sneaking around the Fifth of North must put one in the category of the uninformed.

One woman, an avid listener of these reports, suddenly realized that all she really wanted to know was whether or not to take an umbrella to work! She now checks the morning paper for this information.

And if the forecast is "continued hot and humid", here are some suggestions for keeping comfortable. The advice comes from the U. S. Army at the Research Institute for Environmental Medicine.

1. Maintain your normal diet. The body needs are just as great in warm weather as in cold.
2. "Keep your shirt on." Wear something lightweight for protection against heat reflection.
3. Replace the water lost in perspiration by drinking fluids.
4. Avoid alcoholic beverages.
5. A small quantity of additional salt in the diet can be helpful, especially if you are doing heavy work.
6. Lukewarm baths are refreshing and give temporary relief.
7. "Keep a cool head."

The psychological adjustment to heat makes it possible to continue normal activity without undue concentration on the weather.

When the temperature is above ninety in the shade, if you're a television viewer, you may find comfort in knowing that the tides in the Bay of Bengal are confused, too, by those indecisive, capricious hot and cold fronts.

In Midst of Peace, War

By John Chamberlain

We live in the age of paradox. Working overtime to create an image for itself as the party of peace, the Kennedy Administration has finally managed to get Khrushchev to agree to a limited nuclear test ban. The proposed treaty is eminently desirable from a public health standpoint (strontium 90 from fall-out affects the bones of friends and enemies alike), but whether it will ever do very much to enable President Kennedy to go to the voters as a peacemaker is exceedingly doubtful.

The truth is that the world situation brings to mind the picture of a semi-inflated balloon. Our peace makers poke the balloon at one point, in Moscow, and surprisingly it gives way. But at the other end, in Peiping, the balloon swells and becomes hard. Obviously angered by his inability to carry Khrushchev with him in offering a round-the-world warlike front to the capitalist West, Mao Tse-tung makes menacing moves in Indochina, in Tibet along the Indian border, and in the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

As this column is being written, Mao's probing moves are on the small-scale side. Three American soldiers have been killed by ambush in Korea, provoking a retaliation in kind. The loss of his son, Corporal George Larson Jr., to a North Korean sniper's bullet caused a Davison, Mich., father to say some bitter words about the way the U.S. chooses to fight the Cold War. "I don't think we are doing enough," he said. "It can be stopped and if it has to be stopped by force let's get it over with. This year-after-year stuff is not my way of thinking."

This is one man's reaction under stress of sorrow and anger. But it could easily become the mood of the whole country if Mao Tse-tung, prodding us from the Far East, frustrates the hopes of many who have placed their bets on a possible relaxation of international tensions by way of cessation of nuclear explosions.

Unless Mao Tse-tung subsides, the Kennedy Administration, looking to Moscow for peace, will have to execute a right-about-face that could bring it hard up against the realities of war in Asia. This is one possibility in our age of paradox. But far from losing his soul in the eyes of the American people if he should be forced to accept a bellicose role, John F. Kennedy might save himself. (The President is at his best when he gets angry, as he did recently at the Berlin Wall.) There are many more Americans than a single bereaved Michigan father who are heartily sick of "this year-to-year stuff". Indeed, the hunger for a nuclear test ban derives from the same fundamental impatience with our slow-motion Cold War policy that caused the Michigan father to flare up.

The Administration has never asked this column's advice, but we are willing to bet that Kennedy's popularity rating would jump ten percentage points if he would let go at Mao Tse-tung with a verbal block-buster accompanied by certain concerted moves on the diplomatic front. The first indicated move is obvious. The Taiwan Chinese have been making tentative preparations for a possible invasion of the Mainland. But the bottleneck in these preparations has been the provision of landing craft. Unable to buy them in any significant quantity in the U.S., the Taiwan invasion planners were, at last reports, turning to Japanese shipyards as a possible source of supply. Well, why doesn't Kennedy tell Chiang Kai-shek that he can have all the landing craft he wants, and pronto? If the U.S. would only co-ordinate his moves on three fronts, in Korea, Taiwan and in the Vietnam-Laos area, it would confront Mao with a put-up-or-shut-up situation.

And what if Mao did not choose to shut up? Let me quote from that most understanding writer on Far Eastern affairs, Valentin Chu, whose book, "Ta Ta, Tan Tan", seems to be selling without any official blessing from Owen Lattimore. Before the recent collapse of the Sino-Soviet talks in Moscow Mr. Chu wrote: "It is improbable but not inconceivable that Mao may defy Khrushchev to the bitter end by throwing his human and natural resources into a Quixotic seige — thus promptly bringing about the bitter end. Any of these developments could cause the Mao Dynasty to topple as suddenly as the monolithic Chin Dynasty 21 centuries ago."

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

DEAL EXTENDED: West Germany has agreed to buy $1.3 billion in U.S. equipment and services over two years.

The agreement, initialed in Bonn by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel, extended through fiscal 1965 the program under which Germany makes U.S. purchases of about $650 million a year.

The program is considered important to the American effort to bring in money from abroad to balance against the heavy U.S. spending overseas.

McNamara returned to Washington Monday after a week in Germany.

MORE TIME: Congress has decided to give the National Cultural Center trustees three more years to raise from $30 million by public subscription.

The initial five-year period expires Sept. 2 with only $10 million raised to build the center.

But the House completed congressional action on the reprieve by a 293-33 vote Monday.

The bill, which now goes to the White House, also raises the number of trustees from 15 to 30.

CHURCH SCHOOLS: Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said today the Kennedy administration supports restricted federal aid to church-related schools.

Ribicoff cited in a prepared Senate speech a July 3 letter from Francis Keppel, commissioner of education, that it is his view there should be "federal financial assistance to private education at all levels, using such means as are generally agreed to be constitutional."

There is a general misunderstanding, Ribicoff said, that President Kennedy opposed aid to parochial schools as unconstitutional. But he said what Kennedy opposes is across-the-board aid and not assistance given to such projects as the building of a chemistry laboratory.

Wife Preservers

One way to dress up a plain bathroom is to hang a group of fancily framed little floral prints.

If you enjoy anchovies and want to cut down on their salty flavor, soak them in a little cold water before using; and here's a fine way to use them: drench thick slices of ripe red tomatoes with French dressing; top the slices with the anchovies.

When you have parsley in the house, you'll find it adds fine flavor to a tossed green salad.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Grapes of Wrath'

DEAR ABBY: I'm surprised at you. I usually agree with your answers, but that letter about the little four-year-old taking one grape at the grocery store amazed me. Are YOU agreeing with that busybody who saw it and said, "He'll be stealing cars at 16"? Let me quote Dr. Spock: "When small children take things that don't belong to them, it isn't stealing. They don't have a clear sense of what belongs to them and what doesn't." Besides a grocery store is no place to discipline a child. She should have waited until they got home, and then explained why he shouldn't have taken the grape. You must never humiliate a child by reprimanding him in front of others.

STEADY READER

DEAR READER: Sorry, I don't speak Spock. If a child of four doesn't know what he sees displayed at a grocery store does not belong to him, the time to teach him is when he starts to help himself. I realize that public reprimand is doubly hard for a child to bear, but for some reason, those are the lessons they seem to remember longest.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the young mother who didn't want to make a scene over one grape interested me. No scene is necessary if you start with the first grape. Several months ago, while marketing with my 3 1/2-year-old son, I noticed he was eating a cookie to which he had helped himself. I quietly led him to the cashier and asked him to apologize for taking that which did not belong to him. Then I insisted on "paying" for it. Believe it or not I had to make faces at the cashier over my child's head to get her to cooperate with me. She was ready to assume the "Oh, that's all right, forget it," attitude. It's difficult for mothers to teach their children complete honesty without the co-operation of others.

MRS. C.C.R.

DEAR ABBY: The "grape" story reminded me that we are never too young (or too old) to learn a lesson in honesty. When my husband and I were newlyweds in 1937, things were rough. We were treating ourselves to a "movie"—the first in many months. My husband bought the tickets and as we were getting seated, he whispered in my ear, "Oh, boy! The cashier gave me change for a TEN, and I only gave her a one!" I turned to him and said, "Is your integrity worth only nine dollars?" He walked back, called the cashier's attention to her error and returned to me. Then he squeezed my hand and said, "Thank you, dear. I needed that lesson."

PROUD

DEAR ABBY: About the young mother whose child ate a stolen grape from the grocery counter: She should have taught the child never to eat fruit unless it had been washed first. No wonder there is so much sickness in the world. There is more harm in eating unwashed fruit than in stealing. It says in the Bible, "Cleanliness is next to godliness," you know.

ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: True, all fruit should be washed before eating. But it is equally important that the fruit should be paid for first! Cleanliness is next to godliness is NOT a quote from the Bible—but "Thou shalt not steal" is.

Wife Preservers

One way to dress up a plain bathroom is to hang a group of fancily framed little floral prints.

If you enjoy anchovies and want to cut down on their salty flavor, soak them in a little cold water before using, and here's a fine way to use them: drench thick slices of ripe red tomatoes with French dressing; top the slices with the anchovies.

When you have parsley in the house, you'll find it adds fine flavor to a tossed green salad.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Grapes of Wrath'

DEAR ABBY: I'm surprised at you. I usually agree with your answers, but that letter about the little four-year-old taking one grape at the grocery store amazed me. Are YOU agreeing with that busybody who saw it and said, "He'll be stealing cars at 16"? Let me quote Dr. Spock: "When small children take things that don't belong to them, it isn't stealing. They don't have a clear sense of what belongs to them and what doesn't." Besides a grocery store is no place to discipline a child. She should have waited until they got home, and then explained why he shouldn't have taken the grape. You must never humiliate a child by reprimanding him in front of others.

MRS. C.C.R.

DEAR ABBY: The "grape" story reminded me that we are never too young (or too old) to learn a lesson in honesty. When my husband and I were newlyweds in 1937, things were rough. TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 6, the 218th day of 1963. There are 147 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the first atomic bomb was dropped by the United States on Hiroshima, Japan, late in World War II. When Japan refused President Truman's offer of a chance to surrender, a second bomb was dropped two days later on Nagasaki.

On this date:

In 1777, one of the American Revolutionary War's bloodiest battles took place at Oriskany, N.Y.

In 1806, Napoleon ordered dissolution of the Holy Roman Empire.

In 1889, the Sioux reservation of 12 million acres in Dakota was ceded to the United States.

In 1926, Gertrude Ederle of the United States became the first woman to swim the English Channel.

In 1954, death came to Emilie Dionne 20, one of Canada's famed quintuplets.

Ten years ago: Actor-singer Dick Haymes was arrested for deportation to his native Argentina for alleged violation of U.S. immigration laws.

Five years ago: Australia's great distance runner, Herb Elliott, ran a record mile in 3:54.5 at Dublin, Ireland.

One year ago: Former President Eisenhower described the Kennedy administration's space program to land a man on the moon as a "mad effort to win a stunt race."

AMBUSHED IN KOREA — Wounded in an hour-long clash with North Koreans 6 miles below the demilitarized zone dividing South Korea from the Communist North, Pfc. William L. Foster, 26, Baltimore, survived an emergency operation and was reported in good condition. Another American soldier was killed, the third in two days of ambushes.

Cincy Woman Accused Of Kidnaping Own Tots

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Morrison, 32, and her husband, William, 35, face trial on kidnaping charges for taking her two children by a previous marriage from a grandmother's home, back from Jacksonville, Fla., over the weekend and pleaded innocent to the charge Monday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court. The grandmother was the children's legal guardian.

U. S. COULD "REACH" RUSSIAN PRODUCTION, IF . . . —Assertedly tiring of all the dire warnings that Russia is ahead of us in this or that, Dr. George L. McNew, managing director of the Boyce Institute for Plant Research in Yonkers, N.Y., dug up some facts. He said the U.S. will be on a par with Russia when we plug two-thirds of our oil wells; destroy two of every three hydroelectric plants; burn seven of every 10 homes; scrap 19 of every 20 autos and trucks; abandon three-fifths of our steel production capacity; rip up two of every three miles of railroad tracks; eliminate 95 per cent of our motor manufacturing; sink eight of every nine ocean-going vessels; destroy 40 million TV sets, and discontinue nine of every 10 telephones.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—In Louisiana there's an old saying: "God hates ugly." It means you'll get yours in time, if you're a heel or you hurt people. Yet Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier, who isn't pretty, is still Haiti's dictator.

But time is running out. He's had trouble a-plenty. He's made plenty. Monday before dawn about 500 exiled Haitian officers and soldiers reportedly landed and started an invasion of this island which Columbus liked.

If this flops, Duvalier can expect something else. His opposition within Haiti has been chopped to pieces by mass arrests, exile, murder, and political blackmail. He's too hated to sleep well.

Last month young rebels fought his regime in the mountains until they were crushed. He had a crisis in April with an army against him. It failed. But his army suffered. Top officers fled.

He doesn't trust his army, about 5,000 men trained mainly in police work. He has his own militia, the dreaded Ton-Ton Macoutes (Creole for bogymen). He had a crisis with the United States too.

He was elected in 1957, supposedly for seven years, not because he was loved but because Haiti's Negro masses had to choose between Duvalier, a Negro, and his opponent, a mulatto. The bitterness between Negroes, mostly illiterate, and the better-educated mulattoes goes back almost to the beginning of the country.

But when his term was up May 15, he decided to stay a few years more. He claimed that an election two years ago legally extended his rule. This country was self-conscious anyway for having supported this dictator, the worst in Latin America. So it suspended diplomatic relations with him. This was an empty gesture.

He crushed his opponents and kept office. Then, even though the State Department said he had imposed a reign of terror, it resumed relations with him June 3.

But Duvalier pulled Uncle Sam's whiskers, a popular tactic in Haiti which remembers that U.S. Marines occupied the country from 1915 to 1934. Duvalier demanded that Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston be withdrawn. The United States withdrew him.

Duvalier had had trouble with the United States before that. Last March he threw out Marine Col. Robert Heintz, former boss of the U.S. military mission in Haiti.

Heintz angered Duvalier a year ago by writing a letter—which leaked out—to army chief of staff Col. Jean Rene Boucicaut. Heintz allegedly deplored Duvalier's downgrading of the regular army in favor of a civilian militia and demanded that the militia be dissolved. It wasn't.

Duvalier began a purge that pro-U.S. officers, who could have let move to overthrow him. He got even tougher. He ordered the U.S. Navy and Air Force missions to leave Haiti. The last left July 6. Remaining in Port au Prince are only the U.S. military attaché, Major John Warren, and seven Marine guards.

The country is in bad shape. Its finances are suffering. Government employees are discontented with their pay cut.

Private and public investment has disappeared in the past two years. So has tourism, which produced roughly $8 million a year, about a quarter of the nation budget. American dollar aid has been withdrawn. Beggars are everywhere.

Haiti's 4 million people, in a country the size of Maryland, live 300 to a square mile.

Columbus called the island—now divided into Haiti and the Dominican Republic — Hispaniola. But Haiti, the Indian word for Plain of Mountains, stuck. Columbus loved the simple, gentle Indians he found there. He said "they love their neighbors as themselves."

Within 30 years most of the Indians were dead. When the Spaniards moved out, the French moved in. So did pirates, and Haiti was used as an unloading wharf for slaves from Africa.

In 1804 the slaves rose up, killed or drove out the whites, set up their own government, and chose an illiterate slave who had led them, Gen. Jean Jacques Dessalines, governor for life. He had himself crowned emperor, said "I, only I, am noble."

The island has had a bloody history of dictatorship, with very few good intervals, ever since.

In 1915, President Wilson set the Marines in and took over the country. Various reasons have been given, like wanting to keep the Germans from setting up a base there. President Roosevelt withdrew the Marines in 1934.

The Americans practiced racial discrimination, not only against the Negro masses but also against the mulattoes, who considered themselves the elite. If all Haitians do not love the United States, it's no wonder.

If this flops, Duvalier can expect something else. His opposition within Haiti has been chopped to pieces by mass arrests, exile, murder, and political blackmail. He's too hated to sleep well.

Last month young rebels fought his regime in the mountains until they were crushed. He had a crisis in April with an army against him. It failed. But his army suffered. Top officers fled.

He doesn't trust his army, about 5,000 men trained mainly in police work. He has his own militia, the dreaded Ton-Ton Macoutes (Creole for bogeymen). He had a crisis with the United States too.

He was elected in 1957, supposedly for seven years, not because he was loved but because Haiti's Negro masses had to choose between Duvalier, a Negro, and his opponent, a mulatto. The bitterness between Negroes, mostly illiterate, and the better-educated mulattoes goes back almost to the beginning of the country.

But when his term was up May 15, he decided to stay a few years more. He claimed that an election two years ago legally extended his rule. This country was self-conscious anyway for having supported this dictator, the worst in Latin America. So it suspended diplomatic relations with him. This was an empty gesture.

He crushed his opponents and kept office. Then, even though the State Department said he had imposed a reign of terror, it resumed relations with him June 3.

But Duvalier pulled Uncle Sam's whiskers, a popular tactic in Haiti which remembers that U.S. Marines occupied the country from 1915 to 1934. Duvalier demanded that Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston be withdrawn. The United States withdrew him.

Duvalier had had trouble with the United States before that. Last March he threw out Marine Col. Robert Heintz, former boss of the U.S. military mission in Haiti.

Heintz angered Duvalier a year ago by writing a letter—which leaked out—to army chief of staff Col. Jean Rene Boucicaut. Heintz allegedly deplored Duvalier's downgrading of the regular army in favor of a civilian militia and demanded that the militia be dissolved. It wasn't.

Duvalier began a purge that pro-U.S. officers, who could have let move to overthrow him. He got even tougher. He ordered the U.S. Navy and Air Force missions to leave Haiti. The last left July 6. Remaining in Port au Prince are only the U.S. military attaché, Major John Warren, and seven Marine guards.

The country is in bad shape. Its finances are suffering. Government employees are discontented with their pay cut.

Private and public investment has disappeared in the past two years. So has tourism, which produced roughly $8 million a year, about a quarter of the nation budget. American dollar aid has been withdrawn. Beggars are everywhere.

Haiti's 4 million people, in a country the size of Maryland, live 300 to a square mile.

Columbus called the island—now divided into Haiti and the Dominican Republic—Hispaniola. But Haiti, the Indian word for Place of Mountains, stuck. Columbus loved the simple, gentle Indians he found there. He said "they love their neighbors as themselves."

Within 30 years most of the Indians were dead. When the Spaniards moved out, the French moved in. So did pirates, and Haiti was used as an unloading wharf for slaves from Africa.

In 1804 the slaves rose up, killed or drove out the whites, set up their own government, and chose an illiterate slave who had led them, Gen. Jean Jacques Dessalines, governor for life. He had himself crowned emperor, said "I, only I, am noble."

The island has had a bloody history of dictatorship, with very few good intervals, ever since.

In 1915, President Wilson set the Marines in and took over the country. Various reasons have been given, like wanting to keep the Germans from setting up a base there. President Roosevelt withdrew the Marines in 1934.

The Americans practiced racial discrimination, not only against the Negro masses but also against the mulattoes, who considered themselves the elite. If all Haitians do not love the United States, it's no wonder.

Mexico Gardens Being Revitalized

By SANDO BOLOGNA
Central Press Association

CUERNAVACA, Mexico — This city (population 35,000) of history-making events and year-round balmy weather is sprucing up one of its best known tourist magnets.

The Borda Gardens, ranked among the most famous in the Western Hemisphere, are being revitalized after many years of neglect. The Borda Palace is being converted into a museum of Mexican handiwork with funds of a private foundation.

Court Eyes Fatal Fight With Lawmen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cases of two men charged with assault with a deadly weapon—in connection with a fatal barroom fight involving two officers Friday—have been continued.

Columbus police filed the charges as a result of a report by vice squad Sgt. Thomas Waters and state liquor agent Frank M. Acton of Lancaster that they were attacked while checking the ages of patrons.

Billy E. Smith, 18, of Columbus, was killed by bullets from Waters' gun.

Smith's half-brother, Paul B. Miller, 24 of Columbus is in poor condition with a gunshot wound in the stomach. He is under police guard in Grant Hospital. His case was continued today until Sept. 9, with bond set at $500.

Harry Grubb Jr., 18, of Columbus, has his case continued until Thursday. Bond was set in municipal court at $10,000. He did not enter a plea.

The state liquor control department cited the owner of the Buckingham Club, where the fight happened, on four counts.

Director Donald D. Cook said citations issued against John Kosmopoulos, owner, included improper conduct, hindering inspection, sales to a minor and "other sufficient causes."

Some of the principal exhibitions will be in the apartments of Emperor Maximilian and Empress Carlotta, who spent the summers here during their three-year reign.

For the past years, the palace and gardens have caused raised eyebrows among tourists who had expected to see a Mexican version of Versailles or Tivoli. Instead, they saw virtually unattended floral areas and buildings which were shut down because of badly needed renovation.

However, guides and guidebooks have rhapsodized about the elegant surroundings while Maximilian and Carlotta luxuriated in the traditions of European nobility.

The royal couple's summer pastimes ended when the Austrian archduke was executed by revolutionists in 1867. The palace changed in its usefulness, the last being a hotel which closed some 20 years ago.

The Borda Gardens were the creation of Jose de la Borda, the wealthy silver miner from neighboring Taxco, who was lured to the "City of Eternal Spring" for a welcomed rendezvous. Borda is reported to have spent one million pesos on the landscaping, pools and buildings.

As he relaxed in his flower patches, he thought of his homeland, France, which he left in 1717, for Mexico to seek a new way of life, becoming one of Mexico's wealthiest men.

Cuernavaca, only an hour's pleasant ride by car or bus from Mexico City, is still a popular vacation spot. Mexico's former presidents hibernate here. American movie stars and business people have homes here.

It's a bustling town with a Spanish-Indian charm, high walls hiding attractive haciendas with swim pools, masses of bougainvillea, orchids, palms and jacarandas. On the horizons are the snow-capped peaks of the extinct volcanoes. Popocatepetl and Iztacchihatl.

Cuernavaca's first big name visitor was Hernando Cortes. The Aztecs used to call the area Cuauhnahuac (By a Wooded Mountain) but the conquistadores corrupted the name to Cuernavaca (cow horn).

In 1530 Cortes began the construction of his palatial home and its exterior stairways and corridors are still in the building. The Cortes Palace is the seat of the governor and legislature of the state of Morelos.

The Cortes Palace is entered from Marik's Plaza, which is dotted with iron benches under shade trees. A short distance away is the massive Franciscan-styled cathedral, ordered built by Cortes in 1529, only 15 years after the Spaniards' original landing in Mexico.

A blending of the old and the new is seen in the many shops and the hotels. Within short driving are the Pyramid of Teopanzolco, a noted Aztec ruin; Tepoztlan, an unspoiled village; Lake Tequesquitengo, and the Caves of Cacahumilpa.

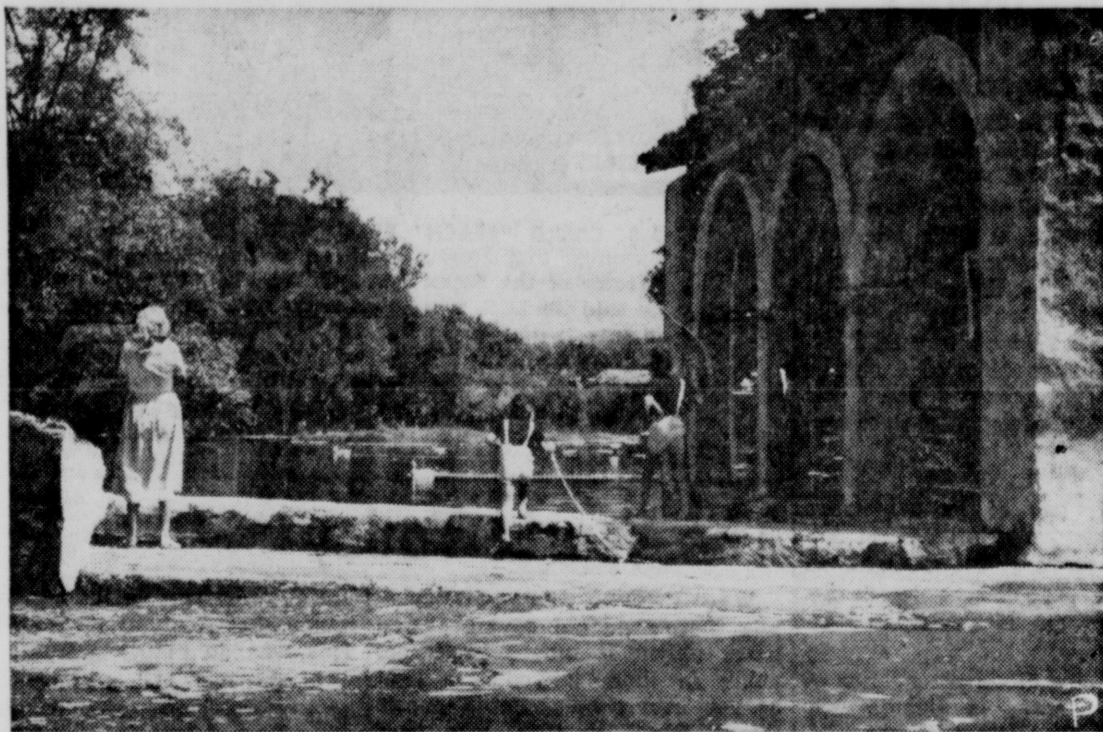

While many changes have taken place in Cuernavaca since the arrival of the conquistadores, Mexicans boast that the semi-tropical weather and the brilliant flowers are the same as those enjoyed by the Aztecs.

Fall Down Stairs Injures Youngster

A local youngster received emergency treatment in Berger Hospital yesterday following a fall down a flight of stairs. Two persons received aid and were released.

Donald Holt, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holt Jr., 185 Nicholas Drive, fell down stairs at a neighbor's residence and lacerated his left ear.

This artificial lake adds to the beauty of the Borda Gardens at Cuernavaca, Mexico.

New Negro Militancy Developing To Drown Out Moderate Approach

EDITOR'S NOTE—A new Negro militancy is apparent as voices of responsible moderates are drowned out by radicals who preach an inflammatory approach to racial equality. Here is a closeup of the militant Negro movement. Seventh in a special Associated Press series on the racial crisis.

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Voices of moderation in Northern and Southern Negro communities are muffled.

In vogue is a Negro militancy, conceived in frustration and impatience.

Radical organizations preaching inflammatory tactics have emerged in ghettos where most Northern Negroes live.

In the South, the militant leadership seeks to organize largely undisciplined would-be followers into concerted action.

If the moderate Negro in the South or North speaks against demonstrations that might result in violence, he often is branded an "Uncle Tom" and a coward. For a Negro to express a moderate view on any civil rights issue is to risk his reputation and perhaps his personal safety.

An example of the radicals' vehemence was evident in Chicago when James H. Meredith and the Rev. J. H. Jackson, president of a Negro Baptist convention, counseled a conservative course at the convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Meredith, who risked his life and the safety of his family to establish the right of a Negro to attend the University of Mississippi, was attacked by a youthful wing of the NAACP with such bitterness that he admitted publicly: "I wept my first tears since I was a child."

Jackson, head of the largest Negro religious organization in the nation, narrowly escaped injury before being escorted from the convention.

Sam Riley, Chicago chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality resigned his post, saying, "I'm sick of sit-ins and picket lines."

Riley's resignation came in protest against what he termed the "ultramilitant tactics of the kids" in the organization. "I prefer to plan and negotiate," Riley said. It was militant civil rights demonstrations in Cambridge Md., during June and July that split the Eastern Shore town and then brought it back together when violent racial conflict threatened.

The Cambridge demonstrations caused President Kennedy to comment:

"I am concerned about these demonstrations. I think they go beyond information, beyond protest, and they get into a very bad situation when you get violence, and I think the cause of advancing equal opportunities only loses. So I have warned against demonstrations which could lead to bloodshed, and I warn now against them."

The President added, however, "You just can't tell people, 'don't protest'—but on the other hand, 'We're not going to let you come into a store or restaurant.'"

"The way to make the problem go away," the President said, "is to provide for redress of grievances."

A militancy similar to that in Cambridge moved north to Brooklyn where Negro ministers gathered their congregations from the ghettos of Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, described as a "wasteland in the heart of New York."

The militant Negro ministers vowed to lead their entire congregations to jail, if necessary, in pressing their demand for more jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans on publicly financed construction projects.

In Savannah, Ga., where National Guardsmen were summoned to quell racial demonstrations Dr. William Payne, president of Savannah State College for Negroes, refused to make public statements on the situation. The city's Negro community branded him an "Uncle Tom."

The influence of the radicals is apparent in the attack on "the big four" action groups for equal rights. This attack is led by radical organizations such as the Black Muslims and a variety of African nationalist associations.

These organizations have attracted larger gatherings on Harlem street corners on occasion than the combined forces of the NAACP, the Congress of Racial Equality, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee.

The success of radical elements in Negro communities is due partly to their ability to identify with grass-roots elements.

Dr. Martin Luther King, at a recent public appearance in Harlem, was greeted with a barrage of eggs from Negroes before he entered a church.

King, and leaders of the other "big four" groups are constantly referred to as "Uncle Toms" by the radical leadership in Harlem.

One radical explains the popularity of the extremist movement:

"We give the forgotten man a dignity that the NAACP, CORE and the other groups deny him. We let him know that he is just as important as the middle-class Negro who wants to ignore his presence in the community."

This "forgotten man," the radical leader says, "is bitter and ready to fight somebody. If he wants to fight, he might as well join an organization that will guide him in the right direction."

For the African nationalist, the "right direction" is back to Africa.

Most Negro leaders do not share the idea that Negroes will support organizations that preach a "back to Africa" movement.

But some NAACP officials acknowledge that the nationalists are a thorn in the side for conservative leaders.

NAACP membership is about 4,000 in Harlem, a community of more than a half million Negroes. Most members pay dues and carry membership cards but do not attend meetings.

Who leads the community and pulls the strings?

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D.-N.Y., exercises control of a large element from the pulpit of the Abyssinian Baptist Church the Harlem Democratic Club and a variety of civic organizations of which he is sponsor.

The Harlem Democrat attacks the presence of white men in positions of authority in the "big four" civil rights organizations and recently has been vocal in his support of Malcolm X, Harlem's Black Muslim leader.

Malcolm X attracts thousands with tirades against the white man. But Negroes more often than not leave his rallies without having found solutions to their problems.

A young Negro leaving a Muslim rally commented:

"I dig this cat. But I am not about to become a Black Muslim. I've never been to Africa and don't want to go. I don't care for his religion. What I need is a job so I can make some bread money."

About 13 per cent of Harlem's labor force is unemployed. This represents more than twice the percentage for the city of New York at large.

Asked if he had sought employment through the Urban League and other organizations, the young man replied: "I don't even know where their offices are."

Many volunteered: "I don't know and I don't care."

Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, said recently: "The other organizations furnish the noise and get the publicity while the NAACP furnishes the manpower and pays the bills."

Whitney Young Jr., Urban League director, said "I do not see why I should have to go to jail to prove my leadership."

His organization seeks civil rights progress through bi-racial consultation and cooperation.

James Farmer, CORE's national director, said "Its going to be a long hot summer. Spontaneous demonstrations are going to be a problem. Our job is to channelize them constructively."

To a great extent, the frictions among these major groups offer no real threat to Negro solidarity on fundamental aims.

Nails in Lawn Bring Penalty

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Marcus I. Mitchell, 71, of Boardman, who planted nails to keep youngsters off his lawn, was fined $200 and costs and placed on probation for six months on a charge of assault and battery today, Mahoning County Judge Edgar G. Diehm suspended $100 of the fine.

Two boards painted green to match the grass and each containing 40 nails with points up, were found hidden beneath sod in Mitchell's yard after a 2½-year-old boy stepped on one of the nails and punctured his bare foot.

Mitchell pleaded no contest to the assault and battery charge. He originally was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

New Negro Militancy Developing To Drown Out Moderate Approach

EDITOR'S NOTE—A new Negro militancy is apparent as voices of responsible moderates are drowned out by radicals who preach an inflammatory approach to racial equality. Here is a closeup of the militant Negro movement. Seventh in a special Associated Press series on the racial crisis.

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Voices of moderation in Northern and Southern Negro communities are muffled.

In vogue is a Negro militancy, conceived in frustration and impatience.

Radical organizations preaching inflammatory tactics have emerged in ghettos where most Northern Negroes live.

In the South, the militant leadership seeks to organize largely un-disciplined would-be followers into concerted action.

If the moderate Negro in the South or North speaks against demonstrations that might result in violence, he often is branded an "Uncle Tom" and a coward. For a Negro to express a moderate view on any civil rights issue is to risk his reputation and perhaps his personal safety.

An example of the radicals' vehemence was evident in Chicago when James H. Meredith and the Rev. J. H. Jackson, president of a Negro Baptist convention, counseled a conservative course at the convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Meredith, who risked his life and the safety of his family to establish the right of a Negro to attend the University of Mississippi, was attacked by a youthful wing of the NAACP with such bitterness that he admitted publicly: "I wept my first tears since I was a child."

Jackson, head of the largest Negro religious organization in the nation, narrowly escaped injury before being escorted from the convention.

Sam Riley, Chicago chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality resigned his post, saying, "I'm sick of sit-ins and picket lines."

Riley's resignation came in protest against what he termed the "ultramilitant tactics of the kids" in the organization. "I prefer to plan and negotiate," Riley said.

It was militant civil rights demonstrations in Cambridge Md., during June and July that split the Eastern Shore town and then brought it back together when violent racial conflict threatened.

The Cambridge demonstrations caused President Kennedy to comment:

"I am concerned about these demonstrations. I think they go beyond information, beyond protest, and they get into a very bad situation when you get violence, and I think the cause of advancing equal opportunities only loses. So I have warned against demonstrations which could lead to bloodshed, and I warn now against them."

The President added, however, "You just can't tell people, 'don't protest'—but on the other hand, 'We're not going to let you come into a store or restaurant.'"

"The way to make the problem go away," the President said, "is to provide for redress of grievances."

A militancy similar to that in Cambridge moved north to Brooklyn where Negro ministers gathered their congregations from the ghettos of Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, described as a "wasteland in the heart of New York."

The militant Negro ministers vowed to lead their entire congregations to jail, if necessary, in pressing their demand for more jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans on publicly financed construction projects.

In Savannah, Ga. where National Guardsmen were summoned to quell racial demonstrations Dr. William Payne, president of Savannah State College for Negroes, refused to make public statements on the situation. The city's Negro community branded him an "Uncle Tom."

Hoover Tower Contains Many Secrets of World War II Days

PALO ALTO, Calif. — England's crown jewels are under constant guard in the fabulous Tower of London, but the priceless relics of how civilization was salvaged after two world wars are almost as carefully perpetuated here in another massive tower — the 285-foot Hoover Institution of War, Civilization and Peace, which soars in the center of the Stanford University campus.

The ex-president of the United States, who at 88 now lives in New York City but invariably returns here at least once a year, first dreamed in 1918 of such a storehouse of memorabilia of contemporary life, while he was on that famous American relief mission in Europe.

Hundreds of scholars beat a path to its door to glean first hand facts for current best-seller books. Recently William L. Shirer checked out the final facts on his book, "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich".

"The Guns of August" got its finishing touches by Barbara Tuchman in the 14 levels of documents in the huge adobe-colored landmark, topped by its carillon bells. Here in the almost eternally

Air Force's Hefty Problem Is Solved

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—A hefty airman has disclosed that the Defense Department has solved a mighty weighty problem for the Air Force — his own 220-pound problem.

Edward J. Maguire, 34, now can eat his cake and have his uniform, too.

The Air Force had told the former Marine he would have to get closer to Air Force regulation top weight than the 38 surplus pounds he was carrying.

Maguire said a low calorie diet prescribed made him sick.

But unlike the Air Force, the Defense Department has a rule which permits a higher weight limit for dismissal of a service man than the Air Force regulation.

The airman, father of four, with 26 months to go before 20 years service qualifying him for retirement, said today he feels "pretty good" about the Defense Department waiver received last week which allows him to stay in uniform—if he can get into one.

Devoted Mailman Feted by Friends

RULEVILLE, Miss. (AP) — A mailman who refused to disappoint children has retired after 39 years.

O. E. Ward often left a stick of candy or chewing gum in the mail box for the little ones when there was no letter to take home. And when a Santa Claus package didn't arrive on time, Ward would check the post office on Christmas morning. If he found the package, he would deliver it on his holiday time.

Ruleville friends, who liked his "beyond-the-call-of-duty efficiency," surprised him with a retirement party.

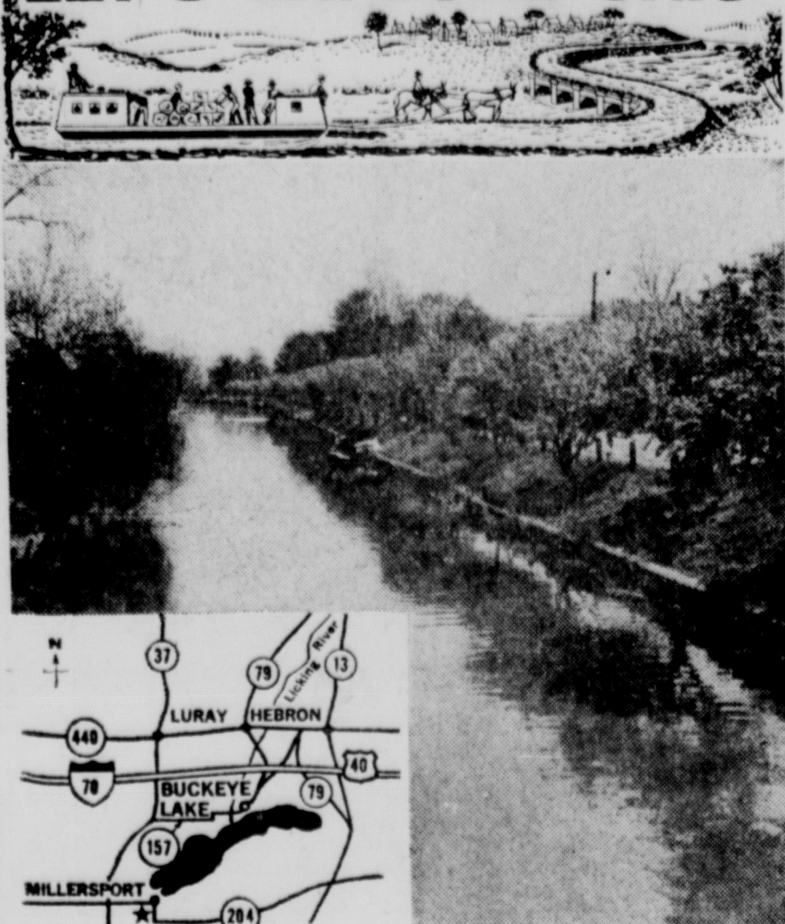

Cleveland City Park Building Lost in Fire

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fire leveled the West Side Community House Cabin in Metropolitan Park late Monday, causing $8,000 damage.

The blaze was out of control when first observed by park police, and heavy smoke and 80-foot high flames were coming from the 1½-story log cabin.

LET'S EXPLORE OHIO

At the proper time in the Spring, this row of flowering crabs along the old Ohio Canal in Millersport near the edge of Buckeye Lake, is one of Ohio's most beautiful scenes. This channel is a busy place today as boaters run their craft out to the open lake.

A century ago this was an even busier waterway as hundreds of canal boats used this canal on their way to Cleveland, Portsmouth or any of the mid-Ohio towns served by the Ohio Canal.

Some appreciation of the magnitude of the job of creating the Ohio Canal can be gained by looking at the deep cut below Millersport. More than a million cubic yards of earth was dug with picks and shovels and hauled in wheelbarrows and ox-drawn carts back in 1826-1828. This deep cut spanned the high ground between the valleys of the Muskingum River and the Scioto River. It was thirty-four feet deep at its center and it extended "for more than six miles with an average depth of thirty feet."

On the Ohio Canal there were about 70 ports or stopping places, ten of which were toll stations: Cleveland, Akron, Massillon, Dover, Roscoe, Newark, Columbus, Circleville, Chillicothe and Portsmouth.

Owners of the canal boats let their imaginations roam as they named their craft. Some of the more famous boats carried these names: Ark, Aristocrat, Black-Strap, Banty, Blooming Youth, Cat of Camp Creek, Cupid, Corn Crib, Eden, East Wind, Flying Cloud, Ocean Queen, Palace, Paw-Paw, Pughtown, Rat of Portsmouth, Saloon of Yellow Bud, Saw Log, Shadow Catcher, Wild Horse of Mill Creek and War Eagle of Roscoe.

The blaze was out of control when first observed by park police, and heavy smoke and 80-foot high flames were coming from the 1½-story log cabin.

placid sunlight of upper California strew the fetid pages of the diaries of Hitler's "hangman", Heinrich Himmler. Here also are the charred pages of the journals kept by twisted little Paul Joseph Goebbels, evil genius of Nazi propaganda, with its purple passages about his love conquests.

The story of how the Goebbels papers were salvaged at the last moment from a Russian pushcart headed for a paper pulping mill is typical of many hair-raising yarns of how irreplaceable memoirs and indisputable "best evidence" of earth-shaking events were given last-minute reprieves from trash heaps.

Appropriately, Hoover himself, figures in some of these, such as the tale of how a Polish dignitary, asked what gift he proposed to give to the distinguished American on a postwar visit to his country, suddenly realized this was the chance for him to smuggle out the only set of Polish underground newspapers in existence.

The mouldering newspapers show how such relics come alive for it was on the basis of their contemporary accounts that the Soviet lie about the flower of the Polish army and intelligentsia being massacred by the Germans in the Katyn forest in February 1940 was exposed. The Russians themselves did it!

French World War I staff maps donated by the widow of a French general were the only detailed maps Gen. Mark Clark had for the Allied invasion of North Africa in 1942.

As you walk through quiet reading rooms you may see a bushy-haired old man reading raply — Alexander Kerensky, 81, the first premier who overthrew the czars only to be overthrown by Communists. He wants to find out what really happened!

The collection is valued in excess of $25 million, but etually much of it is beyond all price.

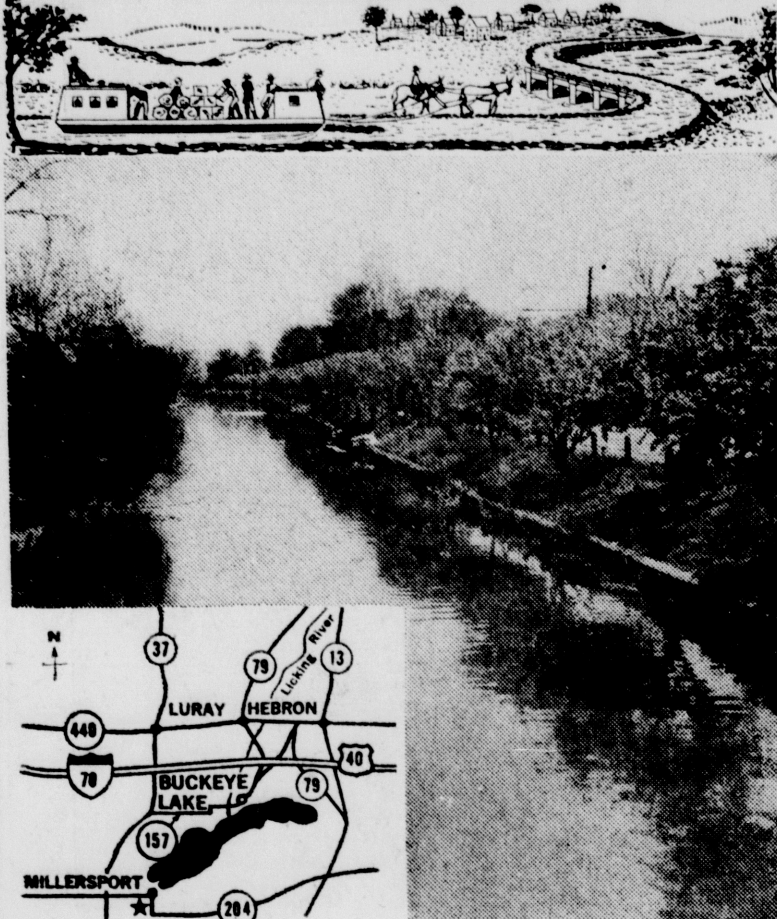

Here is an unparalleled "chamber of horrors" in secret records of such police organizations as the Nazi Gestapo and the Russian OGPU and NKVD.

Here are "documentary time bombs" in memoirs of the late Hugh Gibson, U.S. minister to Poland in 1919-24, Switzerland in 1924-27, Belgium, 1927-31, and 1937-38, and Brazil, 1933-37, which under this will cannot be opened until 1971.

Here also are the documents of Adm. Robert A. Theobald, chief of staff of the U.S. Pacific fleet in 1939, relating to Pearl Harbor, and other sealed papers impatiently awaited by historians of our times.

Toy Collie from Orient One Of Five Dog Hero Finalists

Nipper, a toy collie from Orient, who routed an intruder who had broken into the home of his mistress, today was named as one of five finalists in the tenth annual Ken-L Ration gold medal competition for America's Dog Hero of 1963.

Nipper, short on size but long on heart, barked and growled an alarm after her mistress, Mrs. Frank Story of 7737 Harrisburg Pike, had left the basement to return to the first floor. After peering into the basement, she decided to investigate.

At the bottom of the stairway, she found Nipper holding on grimly to the trousers of an intruder, who had broken in through a coal bin window. Although small of stature, the dog held him in such a firm grip that he was unable to move.

She ordered the man to leave, and he sidled slowly toward a basement door exit, with Nipper following him every inch of the way. Once out of the door, he quickly fled, but was captured by the sheriff, and identified as an ex-convict. He was charged with burglary.

Other candidates for the Ken-L Ration gold medal include a Pomeranian, Reggie, from Clearwater, Fla., who saved his mistress from a deadly rattlesnake; Dutch, a German shepherd from Troy, Pa., who saved two small boys from drowning; Misty, a mixed breed from Dover Plains, N. Y. who led searchers to a small boy lost on a mountain; and Pup, a German shepherd who rescued his master after the latter was being trampled by an enraged cow.

The winning dog and its owners will be brought to Chicago for a three-day, all-expense-paid stay in a plush hotel suite, and it will receive numerous awards at a banquet in its honor in the Crystal Room of the Palmer House Aug. 21. These will include, in addition to the Ken-L Ration gold medal, a gold-plated leash and collar, a gold plaque, a custom-made dog blanket, a $1,000 U. S. bond, and a year's supply of dog food.

Runners-up will receive awards to be presented in their own localities. They will include silver medals, silver-plated leashes and collars, silver plaques, custom-made dog blankets, bonds ranging in value from $500 to $100, and a six-month supply of dog food.

Secret Chinese Records Disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials disclosed today the government has obtained voluminous secret journals of the Red Chinese army showing widespread military and civilian discontent in China during 1960 and 1961.

This was a period of widespread food shortages and economic failures.

Experts however, believe the documents indicate the army leaders were successful in overcoming the disaffection and low morale in army ranks.

How the documents reached Washington was not revealed. But they are now being made available to U.S. scholars—in the original Chinese and at $40 a copy.

IMMOVABLE MITE—Tony Johnny Coulton, 74-year-old former flyweight boxing champion of the world, keeps giant Buddy Baer, one-time heavyweight contender from lifting him when he applies slight pressure near Buddy's jaw. Baer now weighs 335 pounds. The stunt is an old trick of Johnny's—and he's never been lifted off his feet in manner shown!

Federal Curbs On U.S. Sugar Agency Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, where sugar prices soared and then dived in May, will have to be placed under government supervision, the chairman of a House investigating subcommittee believes.

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., chairman of the House Consumer Affairs subcommittee, expressed this opinion as she made public a report by the Department of Agriculture that there was extensive public speculation in world sugar futures contracts.

Mrs. Sullivan said the evidence now in hand does not point to manipulation.

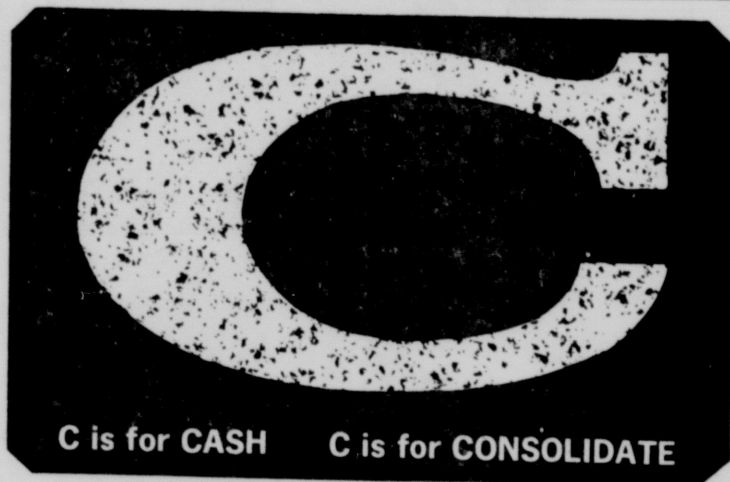

But she said the interests of consumers—"who are still paying higher prices for sugar and products containing sugar because of the market behavior"—require some measures to dampen speculation.

"My own opinion is that this exchange will have to come under government supervision," Mrs. Sullivan said.

One-Legged Boy Scout Makes 50-Mile Hike

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—A one-legged Boy Scout has completed a 50-mile hike that took him across the Continental Divide four times, through mountain streams, over rocks and felled trees.

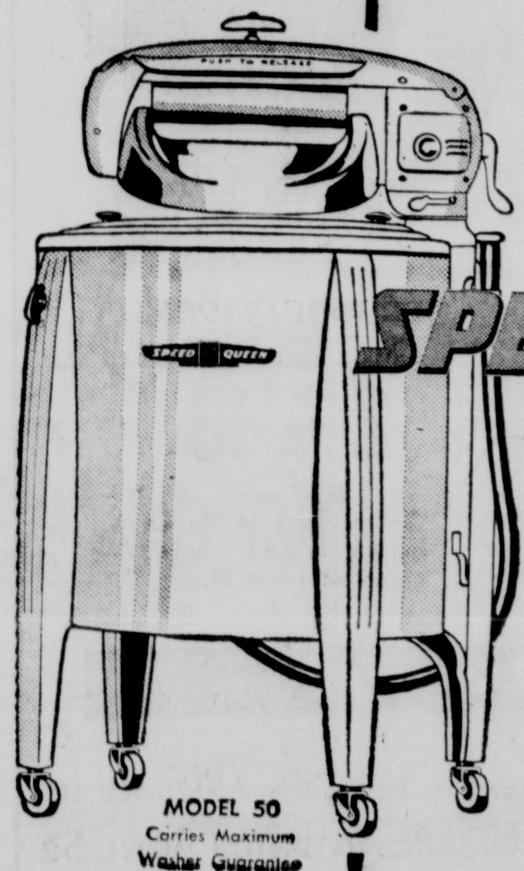

Robert Reopelle, 12, made the trip on crutches with 23 other members of Butte Troop 6 and two adult leaders. They covered more than 50 miles in the primitive Anaconda-Pintlar wilderness area south of Moose Lake in Granite County.

Good idea. Consolidate your debts. Lump them together and pay them off with a cash loan from us. Chances are your one monthly payment will be a lot less than you're paying out every month right now.

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — Alligator rustlers have struck again despite a $1,000 reward posted for information leading to their arrest and conviction. Owner Owen Godwin has reported the third theft at Gatorland, tourist attraction on U. S. 441.

Thirty-three alligators, valued at $420, were taken in the last raid. Godwin has lost 94 gators in three raids. After each theft, blood spots were found outside the gator pens indicating that the reptiles were probably killed before being removed.

Coke Victors In Struggle With Elkmens

The Elks and Coca-Cola fought a rugged battle yesterday in the playoffs to determine the Little League major crown. Coke emerged the victor, 7-6, with a final run in the last frame.

Dale Byrd, firing for the winners, flashed sharp control. In gaining the win, he walked one and fanned 11.

Byrd twirled a neat five-hitter that was marred by five boots on the part of his overeager teammates.

Bryce Brown lost the toughy for the Elks. He walked six and fanned 11, but tossed a dandy seven-hitter.

RICK SIMS pounded a homer and a single for the winners. Byrd lofted a pair of doubles and Ed Wells pounded three singles to account for the winners hits.

Brown aided his efforts with a four bagger. Ty Ankrom bombed a triple and Bruce Liston collected a double.

In the sixth the Elks were trailing 6-4 when Brown beat out an error. Liston then lined a double, scoring Brown. Liston scored on Ankrom's single and tied the game. Byrd then settled down and fanned the next three men to face him.

Coke remained determined to pull it out against the fired up Elks. Rowland fanned, Coats fanned, and then Spangler walked.

That was all Coke needed. Sims moved Spangler to second and he scored on Byrd's double.

Hutch Ponders Hill Combination

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The question in Manager Fred Hutchinson's mind today was whether Jim O'Toole and Joey Jay would prove as good a winning combination for the Cincinnati Reds as Bob Purkey and Joe Nuxhall.

The Reds take on the Phillies tonight for a two-night double-header, and O'Toole and Jay are scheduled to start. The last time the Reds play Sunday—they took a pair of games from Pittsburgh behind the pitching of Purkey and Nuxhall.

The Phils are a full game behind the fifth-place Reds, but that doesn't mean much. Since July 1, Philadelphia has won 23 of 31 games, while the Reds have barely broken even at 19-18.

Mantle Ready For Limited Yankee Duty

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle was ready for limited duty today as the New York Yankees hit the road for a 14-game trip, but the $100,000-a-year slugger is still ailing and still faces the possibility of post-season surgery.

Before he and the Yanks set out on the trip that will take them to Washington, Los Angeles, Chicago and Boston, Mantle was asked if he thought surgery would be necessary on his ailing left knee.

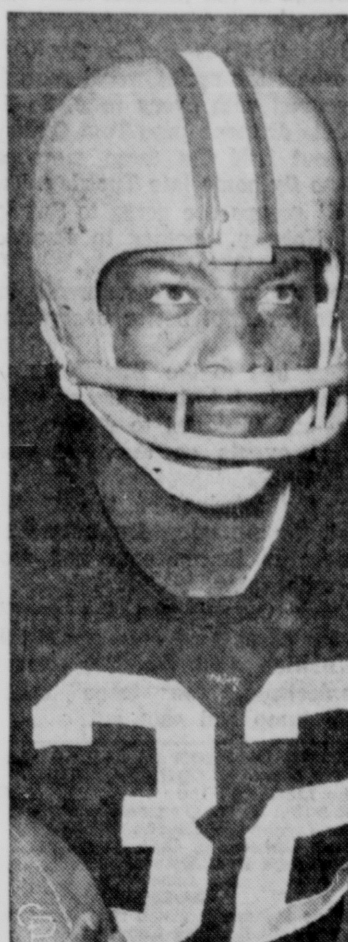

Mickey hesitated a moment, then replied: "I don't know. It might. I just don't know."

The Yankee slugger has been out of action since breaking a bone in his left foot in Baltimore June 5. It was later discovered that the three-time Most Valuable Player had a loose cartilage in his left knee, the cause of his current trouble and the possible target of post-season surgery.

He had missed 61 games before returning as a pinch hitter against Baltimore Sunday night. He cracked a dramatic, game-tying homer in his first appearance and was awarded, he said, the greatest ovation of his career.

The oft-injured star said he isn't yet ready for a full-time return to duty.

"It's hurting yet," he said of his knee. "I still can't play. I hope maybe in a week, but I just don't know."

Randy Dresbach followed and walked four, fanned two and allowed two hits.

Mike Rhoades followed Dresbach and earned the win. He walked four, fanned two and permitted two hits.

TOM BOWERS started for IOOF. It was relieved after he had walked six and fanned four. Newman, his replacement, was charged with the loss. He walked five and fanned two.

In the fifth, Newman was touched for ten runs, four coming on a grand slam homer by Mike Rhoades.

Along with his homer, Rhoades garnered a single. Seum banged a triple and Jeff Thompson poked a double.

Bowers poled two singles for the losers. No extra base blows were registered by them.

Savings Bank Moves Ahead In Playoffs

The Savings Bank moved past IOOF yesterday to take an early lead in the playoff honors in the Little League minors. The Bankers were victorious, 20-16, on a six-hitter by three Savings hurlers.

Rick Olney started for the winners, but was yanked. He fanned one and walked 11 while allowing two hits.

Randy Dresbach followed and walked four, fanned two and allowed two hits.

Mike Rhoades followed Dresbach and earned the win. He walked four, fanned two and permitted two hits.

TOM BOWERS started for IOOF. It was relieved after he had walked six and fanned four. Newman, his replacement, was charged with the loss. He walked five and fanned two.

In the fifth, Newman was touched for ten runs, four coming on a grand slam homer by Mike Rhoades.

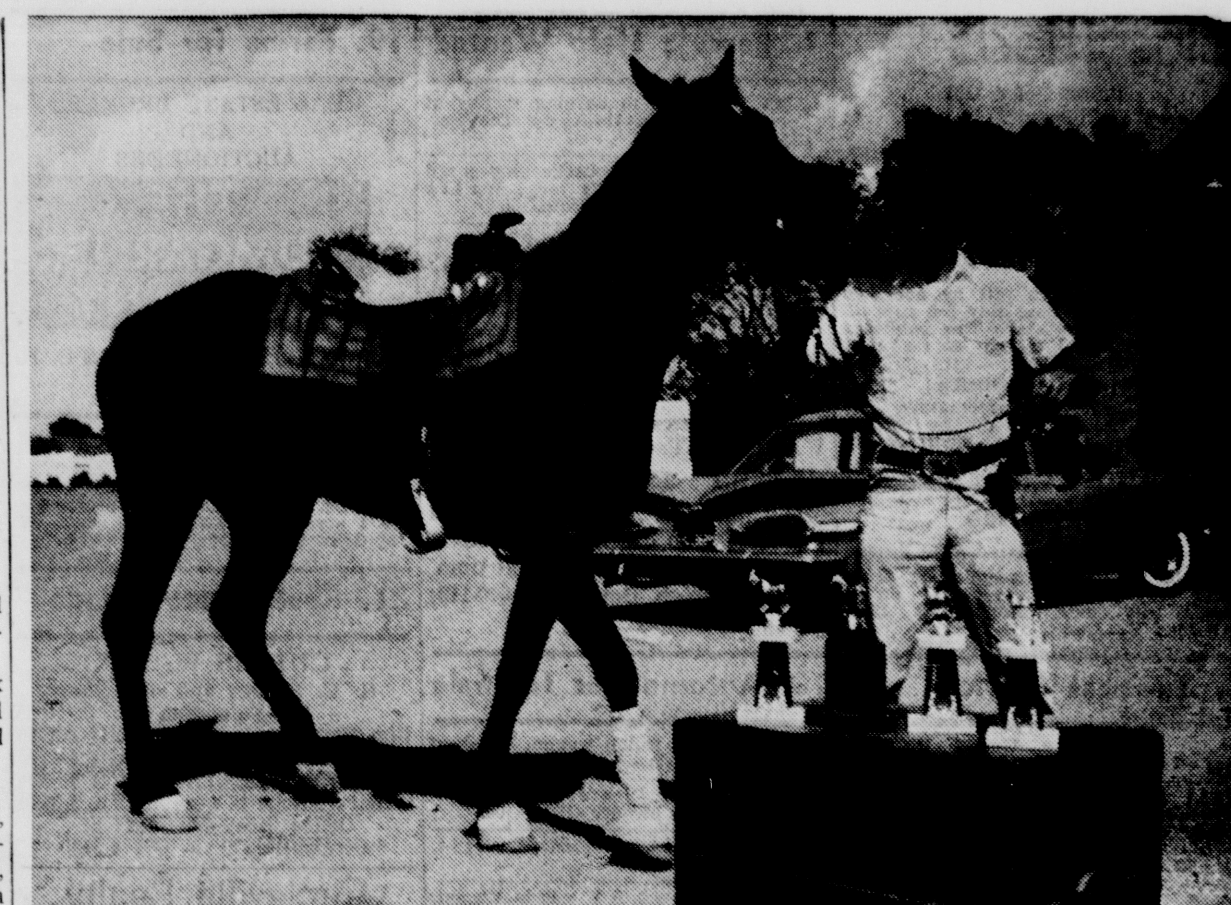

Along with his homer, Rhoades garnered a single. Seum banged a triple and Jeff Thompson poked a double.

Bowers poled two singles for the losers. No extra base blows were registered by them.

Browns Trim Roster Down to 51 Players

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns have cut their roster to 51 players by asking for waivers on defensive halfback Terry Hansley of Ohio State and rookie offensive guards Dick Kelly of Georgia and John Gardner of Oklahoma State.

U.S. Thinclads Chalk 4 Wins

International Tests Good for Yankees

LONDON (AP)—One of the best and youngest, American track teams split up today, with important international experience tucked away for the future and four victories in the record book.
John Pennel of Miami, Fla., who has snapped the world pole vault record six times this year, and three times in a little more than three weeks, set his latest mark, 16 feet, 10 1/4 inches, on Monday on the final day of the two-day meet with Britain.
It broke his mark of 16-8 3/4 set in the same stadium July 13, and bettered by a fraction of an inch his showing in Warsaw July 26.
The Yanks got off to a bad start on the four-meet European trip and had to battle back to salvage a 119-114 victory over the Soviet Union in Moscow, but then they got rolling.
They took the Poles 125-83 and West Germany 141-82 before coming to London.
The U.S. coach, Payton Jordan, shuffled his forces throughout the four meets, with an eye to getting maximum international experience for the team.
"This was a real young team half of them had never been abroad before," Jordan said.
"They got better as they went along, and the young fellows got running experience that will be valuable at the Russian meet next year and the Tokyo Olympics."
Robert Hayes and Henry Carr, who hold the sprint world records, improved with every race. So did middle distance man Tom O'Hara.
About half the team members are to fly home late Tuesday. Two small groups are going to Sweden and Norway, another to Jamaica and a fourth to Romania.
The American girls, humiliated in Moscow, got better every time out too.
They lost to the British girls—as they had lost at every other stop—but managed to win four of the 11 events on their program here.
In the windup of the British meet, the Americans swept to 1-2 finishes in four events and took the mile relay.
Frank Covelli won the javelin for the other American win, while the British took the 3000-meter steeplechase, the three miles, triple jump and shot put.

THIS IS BASEBALL?—Washington fans see an exhibition of "baseball," congressional-style, as teams of Democratic and Republican congressmen clash prior to a Senators-Chicago White Sox game. Here, Rep. By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television, with its endless appetite for story material and the frequent necessity to sacrifice quality for quantity, rarely receives the credit due for its magic effect on actors' careers.
A regular role in even an unsuccessful series is a fine showcase for an unknown performer. And if a series is a hit, he can quickly become a star.
Raymond Burr, before "Perry Mason," played villains, most of them in B features. Vince Edwards, in the days before "Ben Casey," had trouble getting bit parts.
This magic was one of the things which led Henry Jones, a distinguished stage performer, to a top role in ABC's "Channing," a dramatic series, set in a college atmosphere.
Jones will play the dean.
"There were many factors in my decision," said Jones. "The important things were weekly exposure to the audiences with star billing — and the attendant publicity."
Although he has appeared in more than 500 television roles in 13 years, Jones feels that his identity has not been hammered home, partly because he has played so many different characters.
A Philadelphia, Jones hit his professional stride on Broadway in "The Solid Gold Cadillac." In the four years following 1950, when a lot of live television drama was coming out of New York, he appeared in 200 programs, playing everything from hayseed comics to mad killers.
"Channing" may have a tough fight for audiences because ABC has it scheduled opposite CBS' Danny Kaye and NBC's "Eleventh Hour" on Wednesday nights.
Indefatigable Hugh Downs of NBC's "Today Show" has found time to compose some long-hair orchestra music — to be heard Wednesday on his morning show — and is involved in a new audience participation show for which he hopes to find network time.

TOO HIGH FOR HIM—One-year-old George Gabel has a perfect seat from which to watch the Philadelphia Eagles pro grid team work-out at Hershey, Pa., but he apparently doesn't appreciate it. George is perched on the shoulders of fullback Tommy McDonald.

U.S. Thinclads Chalk 4 Wins

International Tests Good for Yankees

LONDON (AP)—One of the best and youngest, American track teams split up today, with important international experience tucked away for the future and four victories in the "record book."

John Pennel of Miami, Fla., who has snapped the world pole vault record six times this year, and three times in a little more than three weeks, set his latest mark, 16 feet, 10 1/4 inches, on Monday on the final day of the two-day meet with Britain.

It broke his mark of 16-8 3/4 set in the same stadium July 13, and bettered by a fraction of an inch his showing in Warsaw July 26.

The Yanks got off to a bad start on the four-meet European trip and had to battle back to salvage a 119-114 victory over the Soviet Union in Moscow, but then they got rolling.

They took the Poles 125-83 and West Germany 141-82 before coming to London.

The U.S. coach, Payton Jordan, shuffled his forces throughout the four meets, with an eye to getting maximum international experience for the team.

"This was a real young team half of them had never been abroad before," Jordan said. "They got better as they went along, and the young fellows got running experience that will be valuable at the Russian meet next year and the Tokyo Olympics."

Robert Hayes and Henry Carr, who hold the sprint world records, improved with every race. So did middle distance man Tom O'Hara.

About half the team members are to fly home late Tuesday. Two small groups are going to Sweden and Norway, another to Jamaica and a fourth to Romania.

The American girls, humiliated in Moscow, got better every time out too.

They lost to the British girls—as they had lost at every other stop—but managed to win four of the 11 events on their program here.

In the windup of the British meet, the Americans swept to 1-2 finishes in four events and took the mile relay.

Frank Covelli won the javelin for the other American win, while the British took the 3000-meter steeplechase, the three miles, triple jump and shot put.

EVERYBODY'S BOATING

WASI FALLS, Ont.—Trailer boaters looking for cruising fun and fishing thrills couldn't do better than Wasil Falls in Callander Bay off Lake Nipissing. Roaring through a forest of pine and birch and emptying into the bay among the rocks, the falls area has become a favorite for sightseeing and fishing. Day and night find boaters and waders casting into these rocks for pickeral, perch and bass. Off shore the bay and Lake Nipissing yield many of Canada's largest muskies and pike.

Just 210 miles north of Toronto, Wasil Falls resorts offer a large marina with all facilities, including a boat launching ramp, modern housekeeping cottages and the North's finest steak house. With all the water activities and long, sandy beaches, the protected bay of Callander offers everything to the vacationing boater.

2 Old Men Sparkle as Names Are Added to Hall of Fame

SOOPERTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — It was a dark, dreary afternoon, but the brightest day of their lives for two old men.

"This is a bigger day than any I ever had before," said 87-year-old Elmer Flick after he and Sam Rice, 71, and the late Eppa Rixey and John Clarkson were inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame Monday.

The four, who boosted membership to 94, were elected in January by the committee on oldtimers who consider only men out of baseball for at least 20 years.

Members of the Baseball Writers' Association, who consider the younger retired players, vote every other year and did not vote in 1963.

Following the morning ceremonies the Boston Red Sox beat the Milwaukee Braves 7-3 in the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game. Billy Gardner and Dick Williams hit homers for the winners, Hank Aaron for the losers.

The victory pulled the American League into a tie in the series, 10-10, with one tie.

Rice, of Ashton, Ind., was an outstanding outfielder and hitter for Washington from 1915 to 1933 and finished with Cleveland in 1934. He had 2,987 hits and a lifetime average of .322.

Flick, of Warrensville, Ohio, played from 1898 through 1910 in both major leagues. He won the American League batting championship in 1905 with a .306 average and retired with a .315 lifetime mark.

Rixey's plaque was accepted by his widow, who lives in Cincinnati, where the lanky left-hander spent most of his major league career. He won 266 games for the Reds and Philadelphia from 1912 to 1933 and died a few days after his election this year.

Clarkson, a big winner before the turn of the century, once won 53 games in a single season. He died in 1909. His plaque was accepted by a nephew, Frederick Clarkson of Meriden, Conn.

Higher Speed Record Sought By Breedlove

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, UTAH (AP) — Craig Breedlove thought today he could go even faster than he did Monday in his jet-powered car when he set a world record of 407.45 miles per hour.

In fact he powered his car "Spirit of America", to 428.37 m.p.h. on the first run. The second run back over the same course on the western Utah salt flats, was at a 388.47 m.p.h. rate.

His average speed was a record 407.45 m.p.h.

The old mark was 394.196 m.p.h. set on the flats in 1947 by the late Sir John Cobb of England.

Breedlove, a one-time hot rodder from Los Angeles, said he had been after the record ever since he began tinkering with cars when he was 14. That was four years after Cobb set the mark. Breedlove is 26.

But Cobb's car was a conventional piston powered. The drive shaft was connected to the wheels. Breedlove's car is more like a jet airplane on wheels. In fact it is powered by a modified J-47 jet airplane engine. The wheels are not turned directly by the engine.

Therefore the record keepers may have to qualify Breedlove's mark, noting the differences.

Breedlove thinks his three-wheeled vehicle can go 500 m.p.h., and he plans to try for a faster mark sometime this week.

Old Robin Roberts To Face Cleveland

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Cleveland Indians will face the pitcher who ranks third among active hurlers in number of victories in the major leagues tonight—Baltimore's Robin Roberts.

Cleveland will send Barry Latman (6-6) to the mound for his second straight complete game. He hurled a four-hit shutout his last time out, against Los Angeles.

Roberts, who has become the Orioles' ace, has a 10-9 record and has been pitching like the great pitcher he was with the Philadelphia Phillies for more than a decade in the 1950s. The 36-year-old right-hander has won 254 games and lost 217.

The only active hurlers ahead of Roberts are Cleveland's 43-year-old Early Wynn, with 300 victories, and 42-year-old Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, with 339 triumphs.

Lucasville Boy Cops Third Straight Crown

SOUTH GATE, Calif. (AP) — Gary Roberts of Lucasville (Scioto County), Ohio, has won his third straight national horseshoe pitching title. He won nine games in a row in the finals Monday night to cop the crown.

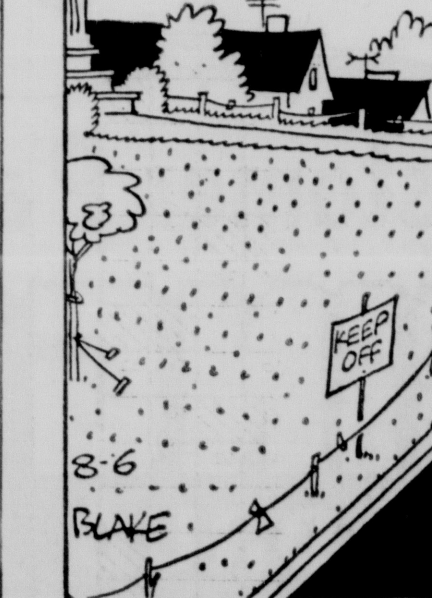

Competition for the world title went into its final day today with John Monasmith of Yakima, Wash., holding a one-game lead.

Houston Pair Hard on Giants

Woodeshick, Warwick Are Keys to Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Woodeshick and Warwick may sound like a vaudeville team but they amuse the San Francisco Giants not at all.

In fact, there was only gloom in the Giants' dressing room after the Colts' Hal Woodeshick and Carl Warwick finished their act at Houston Monday night.

It wasn't a standard performance. Each did something he either didn't want to do or wasn't expected to do. But when it was all over, they were the key figures in Houston's 6-5 victory over the Giants in the only game scheduled in the major leagues.

Woodeshick, a relief pitcher, gave up a home run to Willie Mays, something relief pitchers don't like to do. But he came out of it the winner.

And Warwick, a light-hitting outfielder, was inserted for defensive purposes in the eighth when Houston had a 4-2 lead. But he wound up the offensive star, driving in the winning run with a two-out single in the ninth.

The loss spoiled the Giants' hopes of making up a little ground on National League-leading Los Angeles and dropped them back to a tie for second with St. Louis, five games off the pace.

The Colts, leading 4-2 appeared to be on the way to an easy victory when starter Don Nottbart ran into trouble in the eighth.

Willie McCovey led off with his 33rd homer of the season and Mays followed with a single. Woodeshick came on, making his 39th appearance of the season. A single by Orlando Cepeda and a Colt error led in the tying run, but Woodeshick struck out the last two men to end the inning.

He struck out two more in the top of the ninth before Mays crashed his 28th homer into the left centerfield stands for a 5-4 Giants lead.

First it's Atlanta, then Arkansas, then Atlanta, then Arkansas in the battle for second place in the International League's Southern Division.

It was Atlanta Monday night. The Crackers moved back into second place by one percentage point by defeating the Travelers 4-2.

Syracuse clobbered Indianapolis 12-2 in a battle between the division leaders. Richmond downed Jacksonville 5-2. Rochester beat Columbus 6-4 and Toronto and Buffalo split a doubleheader. Toronto won the first 8-7, and Buffalo the second 2-1.

Rochester evened its home record at 31 and 31 with its victory over Columbus. The victory left the Red Wings one game out of the Northern Division lead.

Springfielders Hot In Publix Prelim

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Host professional Ed Logue and three amateur partners, including his son Jim, have furnished pretty good evidence that Springfielders may be hard to beat on their home course in the annual Ohio Public Links Golf Tournament opening Wednesday.

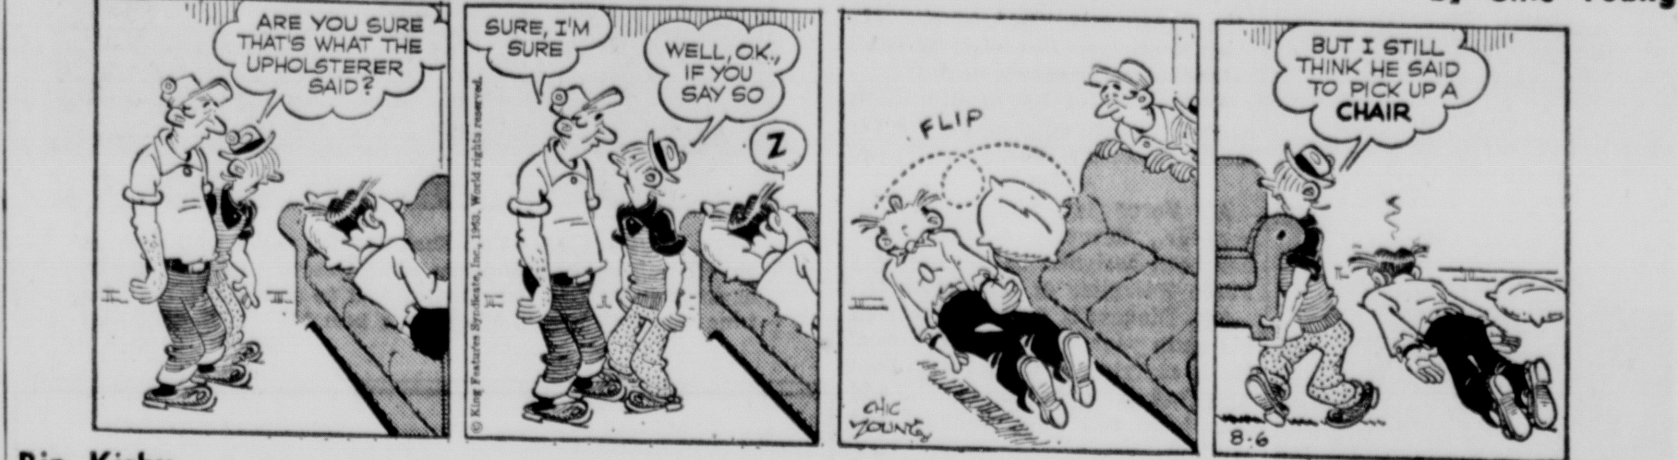

With Jim Logue and Jim Stokes firing two-under-par 70s, the foursome rounded out by the senior Logue and Ron Stokes posted a best-ball 62 in Monday's 18-hole pro-amateur — tuneup. That tally, two strokes ahead of their nearest rivals in competition among 34 quartets, earned Ed Logue $100 cash and his buddies $90 apiece in merchandise prizes.

Jim Kateavage, defensive end for the New York Giants, will be playing his eighth season in the National Football League this fall.

Fugitive Parks Car in Front Of Cop House

CLEVELAND (AP)—If you are a fugitive from justice, don't park your car in front of Central Police Station—at least not when patrolman George (The Memory) Vorell is on duty.

Vorell and partner William Rini were parking their accident investigation cruiser in front of the station Sunday night when Vorell's eye caught the license tag on a car across the street.

Vorell's memory sifted through the 30 license numbers of wanted cars he files mentally each day. He checked the license, then verified that the car's owner was under grand jury indictment for auto theft.

The two patrolmen wandered into the bar near where the car was parked and casually announced the car was too close to a driveway. They asked the owner to move it.

Up popped Donald N. Biedenkapp, 33, of Cleveland, who later proved to be the fugitive. He shouted: "Sure I'll move it." As he walked out of the bar, the two patrolmen arrested him.
